PREFACE

The 202 exercises contained in this practice workbook are designed to complement the information and practice tests contained in the authors’ study books and guides to the IELTS examination, especially '101 Helpful Hints for IELTS' (Academic Module and General Training Module versions). However, it is not essential to refer to those books to complete the exercises.

All of the 202 exercises involve the various skills required to take the IELTS test, and most, but not all, of the questions asked in these exercises are of the type found in the actual test. For instance, questions that require grammatical knowledge are asked indirectly in the IELTS test itself, but are sometimes put to the student directly in this practice workbook (see the Grammar sections).

The book was written with 3 main purposes in mind. Carefully working through the 202 exercises should:

... provide varied practice to extend the skills referred to in the authors’ study books and guides;
... highlight a student's probable weaknesses in 7 important areas of skill in English, - listening, reading, writing, punctuation, spelling, grammar and vocabulary;
... increase a student's general knowledge in 5 areas of current topical interest, namely, 'Communication and the Arts', 'The Environment', 'Technology', 'Politics in Britain', and 'Youth and Education'.

Also, speaking practice is included in this workbook to extend the value of certain exercises, but for a complete treatment refer to the authors' forthcoming production '303 The Speaking Room'.

May we take this opportunity to wish good luck to all students intending to take the IELTS examination soon.

iv. Where did Jean meet the other members of her publishing team?

v. What does Jean say is the reason for the success of her 'zine?
1.7 PREDICTION AND PREPARATION: In the Listening Sub Test you are given very little time to look at the questions before the tape begins. However, you must use what time you are given wisely. Try to predict as much as you can about the content of a section you are about to hear, and circle key words and phrases that you should listen for.

Look at the questions in Exercises 1.8 and 1.9 and circle the keywords and phrases to listen for. Take no longer than 30 seconds.

Try to predict what you will hear on the tape. Ask yourself:

- who is probably talking and to whom?
- what is the precise topic that the person is likely to be talking about?

1.8 TRUE / FALSE / NOT GIVEN: Listen to Lecture 1 on the tape:

a. No-one actually knows how one’s first language is learnt. T F NG
b. There are very few facts known about how language is learnt. T F NG
c. Subliminal language learning can only take place overnight. T F NG
d. You do not need to listen closely to the words on the tape. T F NG
e. You learnt your first language quickly because you were exposed daily to new words. T F NG
f. Watching TV or playing the radio in a foreign language is useless. T F NG
g. The words on the subliminal tape must be spoken softly and slowly. T F NG
h. You should restrict the number of new words when starting to learn a language. T F NG
i. Reading a foreign newspaper is never a waste of time. T F NG
j. The author thinks that learning a new language in six weeks is possible. T F NG

1.9 SHORT-ANSWER QUESTIONS: Refer to Lecture 1 on the tape.

Note that the answers below have a MAXIMUM NUMBER OF FOUR WORDS:

i. Who have many theories to explain language learning?

ii. Name two suggested times for playing subliminal learning tapes:
   1. ..............................................................
   2. ..............................................................

iii. What do babies react to in the mother’s womb?

iv. A vocabulary of how many words is required to learn basic English?

v. What important difference is there between people who speak other languages?

(ANSWERS ON PAGE 111)
1.1 PREDICTION: Look at the illustration below and the words and phrases taken from the Reading Passage on the next page. With a partner if possible, try to predict exactly what is being discussed:

Danish architect

major contribution to world architecture concerns about the cost artists have complained bitterly love of all things cultural restricted budget

14 years of much heated discussion

Australians

fit of anger

famous design

theatres

international competition controversy scaled down

rehearsal rooms

Utzon left the country

1.2 PRE-READING QUESTIONS: Before reading the text on the following page, work with a partner and ask and answer the questions below. Base your answers on your possible knowledge of the topic:

- Can you name at least 6 different forms of art that make up what is known as ‘the arts’?
- What role do you think the arts play in a modern society?
- What art forms are popular in your country and culture? (painting? sculpture?) Why?
- Where are the performing arts performed in your city? Have you seen any shows there?
- Do you know who officially opened the Sydney Opera House in 1975?
- How much did the Opera House cost to build? £5 million? £15 million? £50 million?

Next, reorder the words in the mystery questions below:

1. describe How House you Sydney the the of would shape Opera ?

2. the chosen when design was House the and of Opera How ?
1.3 SKIMMING: Read the text once for the gist (overall idea) and then in detail:

It is almost impossible to write of the Arts in Australia without mentioning the building that first put the country firmly on the world cultural map - the Sydney Opera House. Completed in 1973 after 14 years of much heated discussion and at a cost of almost £60 million, it is not only the most well-known Australian building in the world but perhaps the most famous design of any modern building anywhere.

Its distinctive and highly original shape has been likened to everything from the sails of a sailing ship to broken eggshells, but few would argue with the claim that the Opera House is a major contribution to world architecture. Set amidst the graceful splendour of Sydney Harbour, presiding like a queen over the bustle and brashness of a modern city striving to forge a financial reputation in a tough commercial world, it is a reminder to all Australians of their deep and abiding love of all things cultural.

The Opera House was designed not by an Australian but by a celebrated Danish architect, Jorn Utzon, whose design won an international competition in the late 1950s. However, it was not, in fact, completed to his original specifications. Plans for much of the intended interior design of the building have only recently been discovered. Sadly, the State Government of the day interfered with Utzon's plans because of concerns about the escalating cost, though this was hardly surprising - the building was originally expected to cost only £5.5 million. Utzon left the country before completing the project and in a fit of anger vowed never to return. The project was eventually paid for by a State-run lottery.

The size of the interior of the building was scaled down appreciably by a team of architects whose job it was to finish construction within a restricted budget. Rehearsal rooms and other facilities for the various theatres within the complex were either made considerably smaller or cut out altogether, and some artists have complained bitterly about them ever since. But despite the controversy that surrounded its birth, the Opera House has risen above the petty squabbling and is now rightfully hailed as a modern architectural masterpiece. The Queen officially opened the building in 1975 and since then, within its curved and twisted walls, audiences of all nationalities have been quick to acclaim the many world-class performances of stars from the Australian opera, ballet and theatre.

WRITING TASK 1 - Model Answer:

para.1 The table shows the sales figures of fiction books, non-fiction books, and magazines in a college bookshop for February (1) . (i) ..............................................

para.2 The non-Book Club member figures comprise sales to college staff, college students, and members of the public. (ii) .............................................. College students bought (2) magazines, (3) non-fiction and (4) fiction books. (iii) .............................................. Although no fiction books were sold to members of the public, they purchased (5) non-fiction books and (6) magazines.

para.3 (iv) .............................................. On the other hand, magazine sales to Club members (7) were fewer than for any other type of customer.

para.4 The total number of publications sold for the month was (8) to college students, (9) to staff, (10) to the public, and (11) to Book Club members. (v) .............................................. Therefore, magazines accounted for the greatest number of sales (13).

a. College staff bought (14) magazines, (15) fiction and (16) non-fiction books.

b. More magazines were sold to college students than to any other group of customers.

c. The figures are divided into two groups: sales to non-Book Club members and to Book Club members.

d. Of this figure, (17) items were fiction books and (18) were non-fiction.

e. Book Club members bought more fiction ((19)) and non-fiction books ((20)) than other customers.
1.2 PASSIVE CONSTRUCTION PRACTICE: Writing Task 1:
Identify the number of instances of the passive voice in the completed model answer on the previous page. Some are in the present and some are in the past. Can you explain why?

Next, rewrite the sentences below with the underlined verbs in the passive:

a. The data in the graph give figures for both males and females.

b. The table shows information regarding TV sales to various age-groups.

c. The statistics displayed by the bar chart include data on radio listeners.

d. The chart denotes figures for the rate of vocabulary acquisition at various ages.

e. The diagram divides into four sections, one for each language.

f. The user places the CD into the CD-ROM and the program loads into memory.

g. The music store sold 2000 CDs in the month of May to persons aged 20-25.

1.3 THE TOPIC & THE TOPIC QUESTION: Writing Task 2:
Circle the topic and write the topic question as a ‘wh’ or yes/no question:

Example: ‘Studying the English language in an English-speaking country) is the best but not the only way to learn the language.’

(‘It) is the best... but is it the only way to learn a language? ..........

a. Compare the success of various methods of learning a foreign language. Give advice to students intending to learn another language.

b. To what extent does television have a negative effect on society? Discuss the effect of widespread television viewing.

c. The Arts should be better funded by the government, but there must be more control over where the money goes. Discuss.
1.4 LINKING AND SEQUENCING WORDS: Writing Task 2.
Your college tutor has asked you to write a short essay on the following topic:

'Studying the English language in an English-speaking country is the best but not the only way to learn the language.'

WRITING TASK 2 - Model Answer: Add linking and sequencing words from the box below:

para. 1 Studying a language in a country where it is widely spoken has many advantages. It is (1) ______ a good idea to study English in a country such as Britain. (2) _______, I believe it is not the only way to learn the language.

para. 2 (3) _______, most students in non-English-speaking countries learn English at secondary school and sometimes at university nowadays. (4) _______ their spoken English is not usually of very high standard, their knowledge of grammar is often quite advanced. This is certainly useful when students come to an English-speaking country to perfect the language.

para. 3 (5) _______ , studying the basics of English at secondary school is less stressful than learning the language while overseas. This is because students living at home do not have to worry about problems such as finding accommodation, paying for their study and living costs, and trying to survive in a foreign country where day to day living causes much stress.

para. 4 (6) _______ , there are obvious advantages of learning English in Britain. Every day there are opportunities to practise listening to and speaking with British people. (7) _______ , students can experience the culture first-hand, which is a great help when trying to understand the language. This is especially true if they choose to live with a British family, as exchange students for example. Rule 11. Words ending in 'ce': change the 'e' to 'i' before 'ous'.

Rule 12. When adding 'fill' to a word: drop the second T. (*)

1.1 PARTS OF SPEECH: Decide on the part of speech for each of the words in bold in the following short passage:

1. It is exceedingly difficult to ascertain precisely what is meant by the word 'culture'. The word is commonly used to refer to almost anything connected with a person's customary behaviour when considered distinctive in form to that of a person from another background. The problem is that this definition begs the question. Is it race that determines the difference in culture? Or is it nationhood? Certainly, there are noticeable cultural differences between citizens of various nations, although they may share membership of the same race. Is language perhaps the determinant of culture? Or class? After all, even within the same nation there are extreme differences between the lifestyle and language of the classes that make up a society, as well as varying attitudes towards acceptable behaviour and manners. The problem appears to be that, on closer analysis, each and every one of us belongs to a unique culture, regardless of the apparent general culture into which we are categorised. It all depends on how narrowly the word is defined for its intended purpose. By analysing the word 'culture', anthropologists are beginning to accept that the word is much overworked.

Choose between the following grammatical categories or parts of speech:

- noun
- pronoun
- possessive pronoun
- gerund
- adjective
- verb
- past participle
- present participle
- phrasal verb
- adverb
- preposition
- conjunction
- definite article
- indefinite article

2.5 MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS: Listen to Radio Item 4 one more time and answer the following questions:

i. Residents believed the explosions were:
   a) caused by gas
   b) caused by storms
   c) planes nose-diving into the sea
   d) all of the above

ii. Professor Blunt was asked to help by:
   a) the University of Queensland
   b) the Shire Council
   c) the Biology Department
   d) the Port Charles resort

iii. The problem's solution involves:
   a) blasting the jellyfish out of the sea

   c) changing the patterns of the tides
   d) none of the above

iv. More than half the rock shelf:
   a) will remain
   b) will be blasted away
   c) is the result of global warming
   d) is protected by environmentalists

2.6 SPECIFIC INFORMATION: Listen again to the radio items:

i. What is the name of the environmental radio programme?

ii. What are you told about the distribution pattern of fresh water in the world?

iii. What percentage of fresh water is available for personal use?

iv. What do rivers and streams feed that supply us with fresh water?

v. Why are trees, plants and wildlife at risk?

i. Where did the explosions take place?

ii. What does the town rely on for its survival? (oil rigs? fishing? etc.)

iii. What can you no longer do in the waters off Carrsville?

iv. What is Professor Blunt's solution to the problem?

v. For what is global warming thought to be partly responsible?
2.7 PREDICTION AND PREPARATION: In True/False question tasks it is sometimes possible to predict the likely correct answers based on either your common knowledge or on logic. (Of course, it is impossible to determine beforehand if something is not given.)

Look at the questions in Exercises 2.8 and 2.9 and try to predict what you will hear on the tape. Ask yourself:

- who is talking and possibly to whom?
- what is the topic that is to be discussed?

Circle the keywords and phrases to listen for. Guess the answers to the True/False/Not Given questions before you listen, and later check your accuracy.

2.8 TRUE / FALSE / NOT GIVEN: Listen to Lecture 2 on the tape:

a. We live in the most technologically advanced period in history. T F NG
b. Greenpeace will probably continue to keep a close watch on government policies. T F NG
c. The levels of Greenhouse gases will soon decrease. T F NG
d. The environment was not always considered an important political issue. T F NG
e. 'Green' parties are mainly supported by young voters. T F NG
f. Hardwood forests are being destroyed for long-term profit. T F NG
g. The best recipe for environmental protection is poverty. T F NG
h. Technology and economic growth assist conservation. T F NG
i. There will soon be cheaper food and cleaner cars. T F NG
j. The environment will benefit if we help the economy to grow. T F NG

2.9 SHORT-ANSWER QUESTIONS: Refer to Lecture 2 on the tape. All the answers below have a MAXIMUM NUMBER OF FOUR WORDS:

i. At the start of the new millenium, what is beginning to be reversed?

ii. Two 'watchdog' organisations are named. Greenpeace and

iii. According to the speaker, what is the most encouraging sign?

iv. What is given as a direct cause of 'environmental ruin'?

v. Which high-tech solution is given that will conserve natural resources?

PART 2 - THE ENVIRONMENT

READING EXERCISES 2.1 - 2.11

2.1 PREDICTION: Look at the illustration below and the words and phrases taken from the Reading Passage on the next page. With a partner if possible, try to predict exactly what is being discussed:

- have not seen one
- coming environmental disaster
- sensitive to environmental variations in temperature
- losing the ecological battle
- at a loss to explain
- increase in ultraviolet radiation
- warning us of a catastrophe
- development of once natural areas
- theory
- disappearing from rainforests
- species
- no obvious reasons why
- upsetting the breeding cycles
- temperature increases
- may have already become irreversible

2.2 PRE-READING QUESTIONS: Before reading the text on the following page, work with a partner and ask and answer the questions below. Base your answers on your possible knowledge of the topic:

- What words would you use to describe frogs and toads?
- Why do you think one is less likely to come across a frog these days?
- What are the usual colours of frogs? Why?
- How might colours of frogs? Why?
- Do you know what role frogs play in the ecological cycle of life?
- What do you think could be causing the disappearance of frogs?

Next, reorder the words in the mystery questions below:

1. environment changes a it adapt Is can in the possible to species that ?

2. the you protects ozone what from the layer do know Earth ?
2.3 SKIMMING: Read the text once for the gist (overall idea) and then in detail:

a.1 When was the last time you saw a frog? Chances are, if you live in a city, you have not seen one for some time. Even in wet areas once teeming with frogs and toads, it is becoming less and less easy to find those slimy, hopping and sometimes poisonous members of the animal kingdom. All over the world, even in remote jungles on the far side of the globe, frogs are losing the ecological battle for survival, and biologists are at a loss to explain their demise. Are amphibians simply over-sensitive to changes in the ecosystem? Could their rapid decline in numbers be signalling some coming environmental disaster for us all?

a.2 This frightening scenario is in part the consequence of a dramatic increase over the last quarter century in the development of once natural areas of wet marshland; home not only to frogs but to all manner of wildlife. Yet, there are no obvious reasons why certain frog species are disappearing from rainforests in the Southern Hemisphere which are barely touched by human hand. The mystery is unsettling to say the least, for it is known that amphibian species are extremely sensitive to environmental variations in temperature and moisture levels. The danger is that planet Earth might not only lose a vital link in the ecological food chain (frogs keep populations of otherwise pestilent insects at manageable levels), but we might be increasing our output of air pollutants to levels that may have already become irreversible. Frogs could be inadvertently warning us of a catastrophe.

a.3 An example of a bizarre occurrence regarding a species of frog dates from the summer of 1995, when ‘an explosion’ of multi-coloured frogs of the species Rana klepton esculenta occurred in the Netherlands. Normally these frogs are brown and greenish-brown, but some unknown contributory factor is turning these frogs yellow and/or orange. Nonetheless, so far, the unusual bi- and even tri-coloured frogs are functioning similarly to their normal-skinned contemporaries. It is thought that frogs with lighter coloured skins might be more likely to survive in an increasingly warm climate due to global warming.

a.4 One theory put forward to explain extinct amphibian species that seems to fit the facts concerns the depletion of the ozone layer, a well-documented phenomenon which has led to a sharp increase in ultraviolet radiation levels. The ozone layer is meant to shield the Earth from UV rays, but increased radiation may be having a greater effect upon frog populations than previously believed. Another theory is that worldwide temperature increases are upsetting the breeding cycles of frogs.

2.4 WORD DEFINITIONS: Find the single words in paragraphs 1 and 2 which mean the following:

i. appearing in great numbers
ii. disturbing
iii. unintentionally
iv. death
v. deterioration
vi. branch of biology (adj.)

Next, find the single words in paragraphs 3 and 4 which mean the following:

i. no longer in existence
ii. remarkable occurrence
iii. assisting
iv. (beings) existing at the same time
v. strange, weird, odd
vi. (to) protect
2.5 TEXT ANALYSIS:

i. Choose the best heading for each paragraph in the passage from Exercise 2.3:

a) The mystery of amphibian decline.
b) Frogs making changes to the ecosystem.
c) Multi-coloured frog species cause problems
d) Frogs declining in number.
e) Theories concerning the demise of frogs.
f) Possible adaption of frogs to the environment.
g) Proof that global warming is harmful.
h) Fewer frogs in wet marshland.
i) An example of the extinction of a frog species.

Paragraph 1  Paragraph 2  Paragraph 3  Paragraph 4

ii. What would the next paragraph to follow the passage probably be about?

a) Searching for other multi-coloured frogs.
b) Feeding habits of frogs.
c) What is being done to reduce the problem.
d) Other forms of wildlife at risk.

iii. To what do the following pronouns in the passage refer?

a) One (line 2)   b) their (line 7)   c) these (line 20)   d) their (line 22)

2.6 GAPFILL: Below is a summary of part of the passage in Exercise 2.3. Choose words from the box below and refer to the passage to fill the gaps. First, name the parts of speech of the missing words:

vii. agree with what is known  -> __________________________ (Pattern Type: 1 2 3)

2.8 SPEED READING: Look below at the first few sentences of the passage on frogs. The text has been divided up into naturally forming phrases, and the stressed syllables have been marked. Practice speaking the text out loud, paying attention to the meaning of each phrase, grouping the words in the phrase words together, and regulating the 'beat' of the stresses within the phrase.

Now mark the natural phrases and stresses in the rest of the passage in Exercise 2.3 and practice accordingly.

When was the last time you saw a frog? / Chances are, / if you live in a city, / you haven’t seen a frog for some time. / Even in wet areas / once teeming with frogs and toads, / it is becoming less and less easy / to find those slimy, hopping and sometimes poisonous / members of the animal kingdom. / All over the world, / even in remote jungles on the far side of the globe, / frogs are losing the ecological battle for survival,/ and biological scientists / are at a loss to explain their demise.

2.9 TRUE / FALSE / NOT GIVEN: Refer to the text in Exercise 2.3.

WRITING EXERCISES 2.1 - 2.8

2.1 A DESCRIPTION OF HOW SOMETHING WORKS:
Writing Task 1 might ask you to describe how a machine or object works, or how it is used for a particular purpose. Look at the bicycle below and, with a partner if possible, discuss how the labelled parts assist with its function:

The bicycle is a relatively recent invention. It is by far the most economical and environmentally-friendly mechanical mode of transport yet invented. Describe how the illustrated two-wheeled bicycle below functions, and be sure to mention in your description the machine’s environmentally-friendly feature. *

(* You are sure to lose marks if you omit to mention this feature)

2.2 HOW TO APPROACH THE TASK: Writing Task 1:
A. First, it is necessary to describe the function that the machine or object is designed to perform. Although it might be quite obvious what the function is, your job when writing a description is to be as informative as possible; you are not completing the task if you fail to tell the reader what the machine or object actually does. You should assume that the reader knows nothing at all about the machine or object you are looking at.

Some ways to begin describing the function of a machine or object:

The illustration is of a ……… which is designed to (do something).

A ……… is a ……… designed for the purpose of (doing something).

The function of a ……… is to (do something).

Now write the introductory (topic) sentence of the description of the bicycle illustrated above:
B. Next, inform the reader of the parts that make up the machine or object.

Ways to describe the component parts of a machine or object:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>A. ........ is made up of</th>
<th>(how many?)</th>
<th>main</th>
<th>parts. *</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>consists of</td>
<td>a number of</td>
<td>distinct</td>
<td>separate</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>comprises</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Note that you can place a colon here, in which case you would not follow the colon with a capital letter. You may then list the parts by separating them with commas as follows:

... parts: a, a, a, and a ... sections:

Alternatively, you may start a new sentence after the full stop:
First, there is the... Then the... and the...

Now write a sentence describing the parts that make up a bicycle:

C. After drawing attention to the parts that make up the machine or object, the next step is to describe how those parts function together. To do this, it is normal to use the Passive Voice, since it avoids the use of unnecessary references to whom or what is using the machine or object. However, it is sometimes necessary to refer to the person or thing using the machine at least once, usually at the beginning of the description of how it is being used. In this case, we need to know how to refer to the active participant.

Ways to refer to the active participant(s) of the machine or object:

1. YOU i.e. First, you put your........ on the............
2. WE* i.e. First, we put our........ on the............
3. THE (USER) i.e. First, (the cyclist) puts his or her........ on the............
4. ONE* i.e. First, one puts one's........ on the............

* Note that it is not usually a good idea to refer to the active participant as 'we'. It is less formal. On the other hand, the use of 'one' can be rather too formal and affected.

The best way in which to refer to the active participant is to use a single individual (the cyclist, the operator etc.) to refer to all users. Of course, the problem of references to the user is avoided with use of the Passive Voice.
Now complete the description of the bicycle by inserting references to the active participant and by inserting suitable passive constructions in the following gapfill. Choose from the box of words and phrases below the gapfill text. Also, insert the names of the various parts of the machine as labelled in the illustration on page 30.

Note that not all the words and phrases in the box or in the illustration may be placed in this text:

The (1)_______, who (2)_______ on top of a (3)_______ covered by a soft (4)_______, leans forwards and grips the (5)_______, pushing down with his or her feet on the (6)_______ which rotate up and down. They drive a central (7)_______ which (8)_______ by a (9)_______ to the back do)_______

Alternative gear positions are available by operating a (11)_______ at hand level.

Also on the handlebars is the (12)_______ which (13)_______ by a (14)_______ to a (15)_______ on the back wheel.

Accessories include an (16)_______, with which the (17)_______ (18)_______ periodically with air, a (19)_______, and a (20)_______ for use at night.

2.3 LAYOUT: Writing Task 1.

Carefully read the '10 Point Guide to Presentation and Layout' on page 127 (reprinted from ‘101 Helpful Hints for IELTS’) before writing out the complete description of the bicycle (from Exercises 2.1 and 2.2) on the lines below. Pay particular attention to the way in which you separate your paragraphs. (Are you using the modern or traditional method?) Check the layout of the model answer in the Answer Key on page 115.

WRITING TASK 1:
2.4 THE TOPIC & THE TOPIC QUESTION: Writing Task 2:
Circle the topic and write the topic question as a 'wh' or yes/no question:

Example: ‘Describe some of the problems that (overpopulation) causes and suggest at least one possible solution.’

What are the problems that (it) causes? What is one possible solution?

a. To what extent is recycling domestic waste beneficial? Discuss ways in which a householder can help to conserve valuable resources.

b. The government should spend more on public transport and discourage private car ownership to reduce air pollution in major cities. Do you agree or disagree?

c. Smoking should be allowed in public places. Smokers have rights too. How far do you agree with this statement?

2.5 LINKING AND SEQUENCING WORDS: Writing Task 2:

Your college tutor has asked you to write a short essay on the following topic:

'Describe some of the problems that overpopulation causes and suggest at least one possible solution.'

para. 1 In most countries of the world the population is increasing alarmingly. This is especially true in poor, undeveloped countries. Overpopulation causes a considerable number of problems.

para. 2 In poor countries it is difficult to provide enough food to feed even the present number of people. (1) , education to limit the number of children per family is not always successful. Poorer countries usually have a lot of unemployment (2) , (3) an increase in population simply makes the situation worse. The environment (4) suffers when there are too many people living on the land.

para. 3 In rich, industrialised and developing countries it is very difficult for governments to provide effective public services in overcrowded cities. (5) , there is usually a great deal more crime, which is often due to high rates of unemployment. Further large increases in population only cause more overcrowding, unemployment and crime.

para. 4 There are two main solutions to the overpopulation problem. (6) , every woman who is pregnant but who does not want to give birth should be allowed by law to have an abortion. (7) , governments must educate people to limit the size of the family. In China, couples are penalised financially if they have more than one child. This may seem cruel, (8) the "one-child policy" is beginning to have an effect in the world's most populous nation. (9) , similar policies might do) be necessary in other crowded nations, such as India (11) .

para. 5 (12) , if the population explosion continues, many more people will die of starvation in poor countries, (13) life in the cities, even in affluent nations, will become increasingly difficult.

and (x2) . . . . . . . . . . . . too . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . eventually . . . . . . . . . . . . . .
in addition . . . . . . . . . . . . moreover . . . . . . . . . . . . to sum up . . . . . . . . . . . . . .

but . . . . . . . . . . . . for example . . . . . . . . . . . . . .

2.6 ARTICLES! Next, cover the model answer above and add the missing articles where necessary to the following sentences taken from the answer:

a. In most (1) countries of (2) world (3) population is increasing alarmingly. This is especially true in (4) poor, undeveloped countries. (5) overpopulation causes (6) considerable number of (7) problems.

b. (8) poorer countries usually have a lot of (9) unemployment too, and (10) increase in (11) population simply makes (12) situation worse. (13) environment suffers when there are too many (14) people living on us)_____land.

c. There are (16) two main solutions to (17) overpopulation problem. Firstly, every us)_____woman who is pregnant but who does not want to give (19) birth should be allowed by (20) law to have (21) abortion.

d. (22) "one-child policy" is beginning to have (23) effect in (24) world’s most populous nation. Eventually, (25) similar policies might also be necessary in (26) other crowded nations, such as (27) India for example.

2.7 SCRAMBLED SENTENCES: Without looking at Exercise 2.4, unscramble the following sentences taken from the model answer:

a. the present number | to feed | of people | to provide | even in poor countries | enough food | difficult | it is

b. child | have | than | are | one | if more
  | China | financially | couples | in | penalised

c. for governments | public services | developing countries overcrowded cities | it is | and | rich industrialised
  | to provide | very difficult | in | in | effective

d. cause | large | more | unemployment | population | further
  only in | and | overcrowding | increases | crime

2.8 PREPOSITIONS AND PUNCTUATION: Add the missing prepositions and punctuate these sentences from the passage in Exercise 2.4:

a. (1) poor countries it is difficult (2) provide enough food (3) feed even the present number (4) people

b. moreover there is usually a great deal more crime which is often due (5) high rates (6) unemployment further large increases (7) population only cause more overcrowding unemployment and crime

c. governments must educate people (8) limit the size (9) the family

d. if the population explosion continues many more people will die (10) starvation (11) poor countries and life (12) the cities even (13) affluent nations will become increasingly difficult

2.4 WHICH CONDITIONAL? Decide to which conditional type the following sentences belong - Zero, 1st, 2nd, 3rd, or mixed. The first one has been done as an example:

If governments are serious about saving hardwood forests, logging should be banned.

ii. What would you do if you were the Minister for the Environment?

iii. If we wish to protect the blue whale, we must encourage whaling nations to limit culls.

iv. Endangered bird species will most likely become extinct, unless a solution to problems with their particular habitats is found.

v. If aircraft noise levels are not dealt with, people who live close to airports will revolt.

vi. If you are going to the beach this summer, would you mind not removing any seashells?

vii. If money is not spent on prevention, governments will have to spend more in the end.

viii. If enough wood fires are burnt in winter, air quality deteriorates rapidly.

ix. You would not have eaten that fish if you had known it was caught in that river.

x. Most people would be surprised if they knew what was added to their water supply.

xi. If we want to lessen air pollution, we could start by banning smoking in public places.

xii. Unless atmospheric temperature increases are controlled, sea levels will continue to rise.

1. mixed. iv --- vii --- x.

2. --- v --- viii --- xi

3. --- vi --- ix --- xii
2.5 PLURAL OR SINGULAR NOUNS? Choose either the plural or singular form of the word in brackets:

i. The number of women involved (was/were) greater than the number of men.

ii. In the table, the figure refers to the females and (is/are) larger than the figure for males.

iii. The people who (is/are) at risk (is/are) (that/those) in the group that (lives/live) locally.

iv. The proportion of cars which (use/uses) unleaded petrol (is/are) smaller than that of all other cars.

v. The team of scientists (was/were) made up of biologists, geologists, and anthropologists.

vi. A plague of insects, which (was/were) destroying the farmland, (was/were) eliminated.

vii. The data from the earlier surveys (is/are) less reliable than the latest data.

2.6 PROPER NOUNS? Find all the proper nouns in the text below and capitalise them. There are exactly 40 changes to be made:

1 A report in an Australian daily newspaper, the Sydney Morning Herald (TUESDAY MAY 28), reveals that Sydney's air is fast becoming unfit to breathe. Researchers at the University of Sydney claim that the benefits ensuing from the removal of lead from petrol have been largely offset by an increase in other harmful air pollutants.

5 Research conducted by Dr. Michael Dawson and Dr. Brent Young of the University's chemistry department, and partly based on surveys taken in Britain, concludes that levels of benzene in the air are now a major health concern. An environmental consultant, Mr. Noel Child, believes that breathing Sydney's air is equivalent to smoking ten cigarettes a day.

10 However, according to the New South Wales Environment Protection Authority, current levels of benzene in the city's air are not a cause for concern and air pollution levels are stable. The position taken by the authority would seem to be highly questionable given that another government department, the NSW Roads and Traffic Authority, disclosed in the same report that there had been a 12-15% increase in traffic on Sydney's major roads in the past year. (INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENT ASSOCIATION - JULY 1998)

2.7 AVOIDING NOUN REPETITION: The following words are used to avoid repetition of a noun or noun phrase in a sentence:

- it, its, they, them, their, those, these, that, this, (do) so

Decide exactly which words or phrases the italicised words in the following passage are substituting for, and underline them:

1 The entire ecological system on Earth can be thought of as one huge living organism. It is composed of an infinitesimal number of interdependent units that all play their part in contributing to the well-being and functioning of the whole. We human beings are, of course, a part of this intricate web of life. Unfortunately, we often forget we are inextricably linked to nature, and by doing so, inadvertently contribute to its slow destruction. Survival will depend on our willingness to reorganise our political thinking.

5 No longer can those who ignore nature's warnings continue to bury their heads in the sand. Unless these politicians (who, in democratic countries, are supposed to listen to the people as well as to corporations) do something about the enormous environmental problems facing the Earth, they will cease to be respected, and this will mean our old systems of government will inevitably change and collapse. Nothing can save them.

The database can quickly locate persons with particular (8)............. and, although some actors feel it is too impersonal to be of much use, it is certain to change the way actors are chosen for (9)............. in theatrical shows. Ring the following telephone number for further enquiries on the product: (10).............

3.5 MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS: Listen to Radio Item 6 a second time and answer the following questions:

i. The size of the sound device is:
   a) twice that of the remote control
   b) half that of the remote control
   c) about the size of one's thumb
   d) bigger than your thumb

iii. Susan believes the device would:
   a) not sell well
   b) sell better than her other invention
   c) sell better if it was inside the TV
   d) none of the above

ii. The only problem with the device is:
   a) the remote must be pointed at the TV
   b) it is expensive
   c) the sound levels cannot be preset
   d) the sound cannot be cut out completely

iv. The telephone answering machine:
   a) is called the 'Ad Subtractor'
   b) was invented by Susan's husband
   c) has sold very well
   d) automatically switches callers

3.6 SPECIFIC INFORMATION: Listen again to the radio items:

i. What is the name of the show that tells of the latest software on CD-ROM?
ii. What is this particular CD-ROM called?
iii. Who would use this actor's directory?
iv. From where did Mr Harkney get the idea of a database of actors?
v. Why are some actors unhappy about the concept of this database?

i. What is the name of the show that looks at clever inventions?
ii. How long did it take to invent the sound reduction device?
iii. Why did Ms Schofield invent this device?
iv. Why do we not know how the device works?
v. What other invention has Ms Schofield marketed?
3.7 DICTATION PREPARATION: In dictation exercises it is important not to get left behind. Although the IELTS Listening Sub-Test does not include a dictation, it is easy to get left behind and miss the answers to the next questions. This is usually because you are not fully prepared for what you are about to hear.

Look at the following words and phrases taken in sequence from the dictation in Exercise 3.8:

- Modern world —• threat —• air —• filtered —• nose and lungs —• big city
- cigarettes —• components —• invisible gases —• cannot smell —• exhausts
- cars —• bloodstream —• breath —• future health —• development —• safer —• engine.

What is the topic of the dictation text? Does it help you to know where the dictation is leading? Should you predict the direction of a listening? (YES!)

Use the dictation practice in the following exercise (Exercise 3.8) to practise moving on to the next phrase spoken, even if you miss the previous phrase.

3.8 DICTATION: Refer to Dictation 1 on the tape:

(Check your words, spelling and punctuation with the tapescript on page 105.)

3.9 TRUE / FALSE / NOT GIVEN: Listen to Lecture 3 on the tape:

a. Most people think the solution to city air pollution will be the electric or solar-powered car. T F NG
b. According to the lecturer, solar-powered cars are impractical. T F NG
c. The diesel engine was first produced in 1824. T F NG
d. The diesel engine costs more to run. T F NG
e. Diesel engines emit fewer air pollutants than petrol-driven engines. T F NG
f. The new diesel engines will release poisonous nitrogen and oxygen. T F NG
g. If all cars had diesel engines, traffic jams would disappear. T F NG
h. Diesel engines are noisier and vibrate more. T F NG
i. Car manufacturers were afraid that they would lose customers if they produced diesel-powered cars. T F NG

3.1 PREDICTION: Look at the illustration below and the words and phrases taken from the Reading Passage on the next page. With a partner if possible, try to predict exactly what is being discussed:

- network
- not owned or controlled by
- young and old get connected
- educational hope
- linked
- accessed for information
- freedom of access
- potentially hazardous tool

3.2 PRE-READING QUESTIONS: Before reading the text on the following page, work with a partner and ask and answer the questions below. Base your answers on your possible knowledge of the topic:

- Name various ways in which people communicate with each other long distance.
- How do you think people might communicate with each other in the future?
- Do you use a computer? What do you use it for?
- Have you ever used the Internet? What do you know about it?
- Why do you think some people fear the widespread use of the Internet?
- How does one move the cursor around the screen of a computer monitor?

Next, reorder the words in the mystery questions below:

1. the get need to Internet What connected to do you ?

2. organisation an Internet by owned the Is ?
3.3 SKIMMING:  Read the text once for the gist (overall idea) and then in detail:

Almost everyone with or without a computer is aware of the latest technological revolution destined to change forever the way in which humans communicate, namely, the Information Superhighway, best exemplified by the ubiquitous Internet. Already, millions of people around the world are linked by computer simply by having a modem and an address on the 'Net', in much the same way that owning a telephone links us to almost anyone who pays a phone bill. In fact, since the computer connections are made via the phone line, the Internet can be envisaged as a network of visual telephone links. It remains to be seen in which direction the Information Superhighway is headed, but many believe it is the educational hope of the future.

The World Wide Web, an enormous collection of Internet addresses or sites, all of which can be accessed for information, has been mainly responsible for the increase in interest in the Internet in the 1990s. Before the World Wide Web, the 'Net' was comparable to an integrated collection of computerised typewriters, but the introduction of the 'Web' in 1990 allowed not only text links to be made but also graphs, images and even video. A Web site consists of a 'home page', the first screen of a particular site on the computer to which you are connected, from where access can be had to other subject related 'pages' at the site and to thousands of other computers all over the world. This is achieved by a process called 'hypertext'. By clicking with a mouse device on various parts of the screen, a person connected to the 'Net' can go travelling, or 'surfing' through a web of pages to locate whatever information is required.

Anyone can set up a site; promoting your club, your institution, your company's products or simply yourself, is what the Web and the Internet is all about. And what is more, information on the Internet is not owned or controlled by any one organisation. It is, perhaps, true to say that no-one and therefore everyone owns the 'Net'. Because of the relative freedom of access to information, the Internet has often been criticised by the media as a potentially hazardous tool in the hands of young computer users. This perception has proved to be largely false however, and the vast majority of users both young and old get connected with the Internet for the dual purposes for which it was intended - discovery and delight.

3.4 WORD DEFINITIONS: Find the single words in paragraphs 1 and 2 which mean the following:

i. certain to become. .................   v. complete change ......................
ii. a machine Unking computers...........   vi. given as an example .............
iii. found everywhere. ..................   vii. location (of activity) .............
iv. interconnected group. ............... viii. vast, huge ......................

3.5 TEXT ANALYSIS:

i. Which is the best title for the passage in Exercise 3.3?
   a) The World Wide Web   c) The Internet Revolution
   b) The Educational Hope of the Future   d) How to Use the Internet
ii. What is the main point of the first paragraph?
   a) Almost everyone has heard of the Information Superhighway
   b) The Internet will revolutionise the way people communicate
   c) You need a modem and an address to use the Internet
   d) No-one knows where the Information Superhighway is headed

iii. Which is the topic sentence of the second paragraph?
   a) Sentence number one
   b) Sentence number two
   c) The last sentence
   d) None of the above

iv. What would the next paragraph to follow the passage probably be about?
   a) The future of the Internet
   b) Advertising on the World Wide Web
   c) Abuse of the Internet by youth
   d) The cost of using the Internet

v. To what do the following pronouns in the passage refer?
   a) it (line 9)
   b) Which (line 10)
   c) this (line 17)
   d) it (line 28)

3.6 GAPFILL: The following is a summary of the passage in Exercise 3.3. Choose words from the box below and refer to the passage to fill the gaps:

The Internet is the best (0) of the technological revolution known as the Information Superhighway. Linked by computer through global (2) lines, users can (3) obtain information by connecting to the World Wide Web. Before the 'Web', only (4) information could be flashed upon the computer (5), but thanks to a process called (6), visual images can easily be (7) by (8) through a maze of connected (9) on Web sites all over the world. The Internet is not independently (10) which ensures freedom of access to information.

| communicate | speedily | visual | computer | advertise | owned |
| example      | hypertext| telephone | exemplified | screen | link |
| modem        | travelling | textual | information | accessed | click |
| access       | criticised | mouse | typewriter | only | pages |

3.7 WORDS & PHRASES WITH SIMILAR MEANINGS: Refer to the passage in Exercise 3.3, and see page 126 for advice on recognising pattern types. Circle the appropriate pattern type in each case.

3.1 IDENTIFYING THE MAIN FEATURES: Writing Task 1:
Identify 10 key features of the information given in the bar chart for the example Writing Task 1 below. Complete the sentences below the bar chart.

The bar chart below shows the number of overseas students enrolled in a second year Graphic Design course at a college in the south of England.

Write a report for a university lecturer describing the information shown.

MAIN FEATURES:
1. More students are enrolled from ................................ than any other country.
2. The least number of students is enrolled from ..............................................
3. The profiles of students from France and ............... are similar.
4. More female than ...................... students are enrolled in the Design College.
5. Every country except ...................... has more female students enrolled in the College.
6. The country with the most females students enrolled is .........................
7. More ...................... than ...................... students are enrolled in the Photography core option from every country except .................
8. Overall, more male students are enrolled in the ...................... core option.
9. Overall, more ...................... students are enrolled in the Photography core option.
10. No Syrian ...................... students are enrolled in the Photography core option.

3.2 SENTENCE INSERTION: Practice for Writing Task 1:
Insert the statistical information from the graph in Exercise 3.1 into the blank spaces in the model answer on the following page and in the 'missing sentences' labelled 'a' to 'e'. Then, insert the 'missing' sentences into the model answer.
WRITING TASK 1 - Model Answer:

para. 1 (i) ................................................................. Some students are enrolled in the Computer-Aided Design (CAD) core option; the others are taking Photography.

para. 2 Overall, Sweden has the largest number of enrolled students (1)_____ and Syria the smallest (a)_____. (ii) .................................................................

para. 3 (iii) ........................................................................ For each nationality the males taking CAD outnumber the females, except in the case of the Syrians with (3)_____ females to only (4)_____ male. Sweden has the most students studying CAD ((5)_____); Spain is next with (6)_____, while France has (7)_____. Germany and Syria have (8)_____ CAD students each.

para. 4 (iv) ........................................................................ In fact, no female Syrian students are taking Photographic Design. (v) .................................................................

a. According to the bar chart, students from four European countries (Sweden, Spain, France and Germany) and one Middle Eastern country (Syria) are taking Graphic Design at the college.

b. Only (9)____ male from each country is enrolled in Photography, except for (10)____ males from Spain.

c. As for the photography option, more females than males are enrolled from every country except Syria.

d. Students from all five countries are enrolled in CAD, but more males are taking this option than females ((11)____ and (12)____ respectively).

e. France and Spain both have (13)____ students; Germany has (14)____. It is noticeable that France and Germany have similar profiles.

3.3 THE TOPIC & THE TOPIC QUESTION: Writing Task 2:

Circle the topic and write the topic question as a 'wh' or yes/no question:

Example: ‘To what extent is nuclear technology a danger to life on Earth? What are the benefits and risks associated with its use?’

...Is (it) a danger to life on Earth? .................................................................

a. Computers are essential in the modern office these days. Write about the advantages and disadvantages of relying on computers to run a small business.

b. Advanced medical technology can extend the life of the sick and aged to well beyond the age of 70. Discuss the possible effects of increasing natural life-span.

c. Mobile phones have changed our lifestyle forever, but not all the changes are for the best. Discuss the pros and cons of owning a mobile phone.
3.4 INTRODUCTION:  Writing Task 2:
A university lecturer has asked you to write an essay on the following topic:

To what extent is nuclear technology a danger to life on Earth? What are the benefits and risks associated with its use?

For the introduction, choose the one correct phrase from each column to form two correct sentences. All the other phrases result in incorrect English.

a. Nowadays, all people are scared with nuclear powers because of... many dangers associated with this technology use.
   In this day, many people fear the use of nuclear technology the reason is... the dangers joined to its use.
   These days, some of the people are afraid of nuclear weapons this is because... danger that is of association use this technology.

b. According to me, My belief that, In my opinion,

c. ... although it is true nuclear war the greatest threat to life is, the use of... even if it is true nuclear technology it is true that nuclear weapons the use of... even if it is true nuclear technology it is true that nuclear weapons... nuclear technology for peaceful use too carries... nuclear technology for peaceful purposes also carries... nuclear war in times of war takes as well... nuclear war in times of war takes as well

3.5 BODY:  Next, add the missing articles where necessary to form the first two paragraphs for the body of your answer:

a. (1) nuclear power stations provide (2) important source of (3) cheap power for (4) many industrialised nations and some (5) developing countries. However, there is always (6) danger of (7) radiation leaking from these plants. Even though (8) safety precautions are taken, there have been (9) numerous disasters such as (10) explosion of (11) nuclear plant in (12) Russia not long ago.

b. (13) nuclear technology is even used to help cure (14) some diseases such as (15) cancer. (16) Radiation can be applied to (17) body to burn away (18) cancerous cells. This is, however, (19) dangerous procedure and (20) application of (21) radiation is almost always painful and not always successful.

Next, identify the components of the third body paragraph:

c. The most worrying aspect of nuclear technology, though, is its use for military purposes. Enough atomic bombs have already been built to completely destroy the planet, and the real danger is that one day some country will start a war with these weapons. Too many countries now have the technology required to make such bombs, and there is currently much debate about how to control the situation.

What is the main topic idea? ..............................................................
Identify and underline the 3 supporting arguments.
The summary statement begins: ..................................................
3.6 CONCLUSION: Next, choose the one correct phrase from each column to form the first two sentences of the conclusion.

a. At the end,
In conclusion,
The final opinion is,

b. ... nuclear technology certainly has had positive uses but were nonetheless dangerous.

is had had was non did did was non
c. However, it would have been better if it had never been used to create nuclear weapons.

Next, unscramble the final summary sentence:

d. all should agree | is to continue | to disarm the nuclear nations if possible | life on Earth as soon as of the world.

3.7 LINKING AND SEQUENCING WORDS: Add the missing linking or sequencing words from the box below to form the completed model answer:

WRITING TASK 2 - Model Answer:

para. 1 These days, many people are afraid of nuclear technology because of the dangers associated with its use. In my opinion, (1) it is true that nuclear weapons pose the greatest threat to life, the use of nuclear technology for peaceful purposes also carries some serious risks.

para. 2 Nuclear power stations provide an important source of cheap power for many industrialised nations and some developing countries. (2) there is always the danger of radiation leaking from these plants. (3) safety precautions are taken, (here have been numerous disasters (4) the explosion of a nuclear plant in Russia not long ago.

para. 3 Nuclear technology is even used to help cure some diseases (5) cancer. Radiation can be applied to the body to burn away cancerous cells. This is, (6) a dangerous procedure (7) the application of radiation is almost always painful (8) not always successful.

para. 4 The most worrying aspect of nuclear technology, (9) is its use for military purposes. Enough atomic bombs have already been built to completely destroy the planet, do) the real danger is that one day some country will start a war with these weapons. Too many countries now have the technology required to make such bombs (11) there is currently much debate about how to control the situation.

para. 5 (12) nuclear technology certainly has positive uses (13) is nonetheless dangerous. (14) it would have been better if it had never been used to create nuclear weapons. If life on Earth is to continue, all the nuclear nations of the world should agree to disarm as soon as possible.

(ANSWERS ON PAGE 118)
3.1 RELATIVE CLAUSES (1): Decide if the underlined clauses in the sentences below are defining or non-defining clauses:

i. The inventor of the wheel, who must have been a remarkably creative individual, probably got the idea from watching logs being used to transport materials.

ii. It was the printing press that was developed by Gutenberg in Germany that changed forever the process of writing, and not the invention by the Chinese.

iii. Unfortunately, the particular printing technique which was invented by the Chinese was doomed to be used for thousands of years by only a privileged few.

iv. Of all the inventions that have changed the world, surely the most influential was that of the motor car.

v. The television, which was invented simultaneously by two persons working independently of each other, has certainly changed the way in which families communicate.

vi. It remains to be seen if computers, which are supposed to bypass the need for paper products, will yet be responsible for making the dream of the paperless office a reality.

What do you notice about the different punctuation used for defining and non-defining clauses?

3.2 RELATIVE CLAUSES (2): Add suitable non-defining clauses to the sentences below to make them more interesting to read:

i. Technology, is sometimes thought of as being extraordinarily complex.

ii. However, even the simple kite, is an example of applied technology.

iii. In fact, we rarely think about most of the less complex technology in use, such as the door, and the simple step.

iv. The more spectacular examples of modern technology, the telephone for example, are completely taken for granted.

3.3 RELATIVE CLAUSES (3): Add suitable defining clauses to the following sentences to have them make more sense. Choose from the box below:

i. Nobody can fully understand how television works.

ii. Genetic engineering is destined to change the way in which animals end up on the kitchen table.

iii. People are able to achieve what was technically impossible a short while ago.

iv. CDs are less expensive but are often unreliable.

v. Software manufacturers take advantage of customers that are farmed for food who are proficient with computers who is technologically ignorant that refuse to read the fine print which are manufactured in countries employing cheap labour

3.4 CONDITIONAL SENTENCE COMPLETION: Complete the unfinished conditional sentences below with words you choose. (Look at the conditional structure grid in the Answer Key on page 116.)

Note that the sentence parts are not intended to be matched together.

If the world’s wildlife is not better protected, ...

If parents refuse to discipline their children at home, ...

If the United Nations had acted sooner, ...

Unless gun ownership is severely restricted, ...

..., the money spent on computers in school may be wasted.

(ANSWERS ON PAGE 118)
RULES OF THE GAME:

A phrasal verb is a verb with one (or two) prepositions or adverbs placed after it. The effect is to obtain new verb meanings.

OBJECT OF THE GAME:
1) to practise the phrasal verbs beginning with the roots written vertically on the board.
2) to be the first player to reach the opposite side of the board from where you start.

REQUIREMENTS:
from 2 to 4 players (or teams) (it is possible to practise alone)
1 die

SETTING UP THE BOARD AND PLAYERS:
First, it is necessary to choose 13 prepositions or adverbs from the list in the box at the top of the page and write them randomly along the top row of the board. This will ensure a different game each time you play.

Next, throw the die to decide Player 1, Player 2 etc. (Player 1 goes first, then Player 2 etc.)
Players (or teams) are represented by different coloured counters which are placed in the Player's Starting Boxes on the sidelines of the board.

HOW TO PLAY:
Moves are made according to the throw of the die and can be made in any direction, but you may not step on a square twice with the same throw.

STOPPING ON A SQUARE:
When you stop on a square, you must decide if the combination of root stem (horizontal column) and preposition or adverb (vertical column) is a valid English phrasal verb.

If you can construct an accurate English sentence containing the phrasal verb, you may have another throw of the die.

If your sentence is incorrect, however, you miss a turn.
Note that your sentence should, if possible, help to explain the particular meaning of that phrasal verb.
Note also that the phrasal verb may be transitive or intransitive.
i.e. look after (someone/something) (transitive) and look out (intransitive)

In addition, the sentence and phrasal verb may be in any tense you choose.

SPECIAL SQUARES: BELL, BOOK and CANDLE:
Each player must obtain at least one bell, one book and one candle before arriving at the other side of the board. If you land on one of these squares and can correctly construct a sentence with the indicated phrasal verb, you obtain that symbol and may use it to cancel a missed turn in the future. A cancelled missed turn means you no longer 'own' that symbol and must obtain another before arriving at the other side of the board. Any number of symbols can be obtained.

ARRIVING AT THE OTHER SIDE OF THE BOARD:
You can arrive at any point on the other side of the board with any throw of the die BUT YOU MUST HAVE AT LEAST ONE BELL, ONE BOOK AND ONE CANDLE.
The other player(s) must then ask you to make a sentence using a three part phrasal verb of their choice such as put up with. (Check the 3-part Phrasal Verb Key for possible combinations.)
If you can correctly construct a sentence, you have WON THE GAME. If not, you must return to the square you were occupying before you threw the die and miss a turn.

4.4 GAPFILL: Listen to Radio Item 7 a second time and complete the gaps in the summary of the passage below with the correct word or phrase you hear:

Research by linguists from a top (1) has resulted in a call for an increase in funding for English language training programmes. The research indicates that in certain (2) areas of Britain, (3) is no longer the dominant language. Mr. David Thorpe, a government representative, denies that there is a lack of (4) for English language programmes and has stated on radio that the reason for immigrants taking (5) to learn English is that there has been a slight (6) age shift in new migrants to city areas, and it is more difficult for (7) people people to learn a language. Obviously, English will remain the main language in (8) because the number of immigrants is only (9) every year. Enquiries for English language courses can be made by telephoning: (10).

4.5 SPECIFIC INFORMATION: Listen again to Radio Item 7:

i. According to the announcer, what has happened on a large scale in Britain since the 1950s?

ii. What has recent university research called into question?

iii. Who misrepresented the work conducted by a group of university linguists?

iv. According to Mr. Thorpe, what has happened to funding for English language training programmes?

v. What two reasons does Thorpe give to dismiss the suggestion that English will ever become a second language in Britain?

4.6 STATISTICS: Study the diagrams below before listening to Radio Item 8. Then choose the diagram that describes the situation you hear on the tape:

Now listen to Radio Item 8 again in detail and answer the following questions:

i. When will the full tax increase be applied to luxury cars?

ii. Why is the government increasing the cost of a television licence?

iii. Which manufacturers of alcoholic beverages are not to be taxed?

iv. How is the government going to pay for its increased spending in health care?
4.7 DICTATION PREPARATION:

Look at the following words and phrases taken in sequence from the dictation in Exercise 4.8:

What is the likely main idea behind the dictation text?

Use the dictation practice in the following exercise (Exercise 4.8) to practise moving on to the next phrase spoken, even if you missed the previous phrase. Pay particular attention to listening for the little words (articles, prepositions etc.) which are so easy to miss when taking down a dictation. Also, make sure your work is punctuated correctly.

4.8 DICTATION: Refer to Dictation 2 on the tape:

4.9 TRUE / FALSE / NOT GIVEN: Listen to Lecture 4 on the tape:

a. Britain and the United States have a similar voting system. T F NG
b. In British elections the winner is the candidate with the most votes. T F NG
c. Proportional representation requires voters to state their preference for candidates. T F NG
d. In Britain, all people must vote. T F NG

READING EXERCISES 4.1 - 4.11

4.1 PREDICTION: Look at the illustration below and the words and phrases taken from the Reading Passage on the next page. With a partner if possible, try to predict exactly what is being discussed:

- welfare societies
- two major choices
- government spending
- strong connections with the unions
- political scene
- socialist
- fair division of wealth
- policies
- the Conservative Party
- environmental issues
- the Labour Party
- freedom
- British voters
- conservative, moderate and radical
- election
- less attention is paid to the smaller political parties

4.2 PRE-READING QUESTIONS: Before reading the text on the following page, work with a partner and ask and answer the questions below. Base your answers on your possible knowledge of the topic:

- What system of government do you have in your country? (democratic? good? bad?)
- Is the party in power in your country conservative, radical, left, or socialist?
- How often are elections held in your country?
- What do you know about the system of government in your host country?
- Do you know the names of the 2 major political parties in Britain?
- What are the differences between the principles and policies held by the 2 major parties?

Now, supply the missing first and third letters in the mystery questions below:

1. -h-ch -o-itical -a-ty -n -r-tain (-n- -u-ope) -s -o-cerned -i-h -n-ironmental -s-u-e?

2. -o -o- -n-w -h- -a-es -f -t-er -a-ties -n -h- -o-ntry -n -h-ch -o- -r- -t-dying?
4.3 SKIMMING: Read the text once for the gist (overall idea) and then in detail:

1 The British political scene is dominated by two major parties that have quite different political agendas. However, the ideological distance between the Labour Party and the Conservative Party has become less marked, and their policies more difficult to tell apart in recent years. In fact, it would be true to say that both parties consist of conservative, moderate and radical elements, and therefore the general public is often perplexed about which party to vote for. Nonetheless, it is usual to find that a British voter will lean towards supporting one of these two parties and remain faithful to that party for life.

The Labour Party’s manifest objective is to safeguard the interests of the common working man and woman, and, in effect, give them political representation in Parliament.

The Party has always had strong connections with the trade unions, and, before coming to power, was passionately committed to the concept of a welfare society in which people who are less fortunate than others are politically and financially assisted in their quest for a more equitable slice of the economic pie. The main problem is that such socialist agendas are extremely expensive to implement and maintain, even in a comparatively wealthy country with a large working and, hence, taxpaying population base. Welfare societies tend towards bankruptcy unless government spending is kept in check. Fortunately, the present government recognises this, and has resisted reckless spending.

The Conservative Party, on the other hand, argues that the best way to ensure a fair division of wealth in the country is to allow more freedom to create it. This, in turn, means more opportunities, jobs created etc., and therefore more wealth available to all. Just how the poor are to share in the distribution of this wealth (beyond being given, at least in theory, the opportunity to create it) is, however, less well understood. Practice, of course, may make nonsense of even the best theoretical intentions, and often the less politically powerful are badly catered for under governments implementing ‘free-for-all’ policies.

It is surprising, given the current homogeneity of the two major parties, that less attention than elsewhere in Europe is paid to the smaller political parties such as the Greens and the Liberal Democrats. This may be because British voters distrust parties with platforms based around one or two major current issues alone; the Green Party, for example, is almost solely concerned with the environment. Moreover, when it comes to casting a vote, history shows that the British public tends to resist change and, thus, the status quo is maintained.

4.4 WORD DEFINITIONS: Find the single words in paragraphs 1 and 2 which mean the following:

i. controlled or influenced (by) ........................ v. loyal ........................

ii. lists of things to be done ..................... vi. by comparison ...................

iii. (to) make safe .............................. vii. (to) put into practice ..............

iv. puzzled, confused ........................... viii. equal .............................

4.5 TEXT ANALYSIS:

i. Which is the best title for the passage in Exercise 4.3?

   a) The Labour and Conservative Parties  c) Who the Public Should Vote For

   b) British Politics - an Overview  d) A Short History of Politics in Britain
ii. What is the main point of the first paragraph?
   a) British voters are confused about which political party to vote for
   b) The policies of the two major British political parties are often similar
   c) Two political parties dominate the British political scene
   d) The policies of the two major British parties differ greatly

iii. Which is the topic sentence of the second paragraph?
   a) Sentence number one
   b) Sentence number two
   c) The last sentence
   d) none of the above

iv. What is the main topic of the final paragraph of the passage?
   a) current political issues
   b) The Green Party
   c) Attitudes of British voters
   d) The smaller political parties

v. To what do the following pronouns in the passage refer?
   a) that (line 7)
   b) it (line 18)
   c) it (line 22)
   d) this (line 27)

4.6 GAPFILL: The following is a summary of the passage in Exercise 4.3.
Choose words/phrases from the box below and refer to the passage to fill the gaps:

Two parties (1) the British political scene: the Labour Party and the Conservative Party. Although (2) there are many similarities to be seen in their policies, British voters tend to stay (3) for life to the party of their choice. The (4) Party, encouraged by the (5), supports a welfare-based (6), whereas the (7) Party believes that (8) to pursue the creation of wealth ensures that all will eventually benefit from the opportunities created. Oddly, Britons do not follow Europeans by paying much (9) to smaller political parties, perhaps because their policies are based on just a few (10) political issues.

fell dramatically  gradually increased  decreased slightly  rose sharply

a. In the third quarter, Acme Sports Cars' monthly profit increased steadily to (9) ...... and remained stable, while Branson Motors' monthly profits fluctuated between just over (10) ...... and (11) .......

b. Branson Motors' monthly profit, however, doubled from (12) ...... to (13) .......

c. The graph shows the four quarters of the (14) financial year and the monthly profit of Acme Sports Cars and Branson Motors for (15) months.

d. There was a three-fold increase in the latter's monthly profit over the same period.

4.3 THE TOPIC & THE TOPIC QUESTION: Writing Task 2:

Circle the topic and write the topic question as a ‘wh’ or yes/no question:

Example:  ‘Although abuses of the system are inevitable, social welfare payments are essential to protect the rights of citizens have to a guaranteed minimum income in a democratic society.’ Discuss.

Are (they) essential to protect citizens’ rights to a guaranteed income?

a. The government is ultimately responsible for making the streets safe. Stronger gun laws should be in force to protect all citizens. How far do you agree or disagree with this statement?

b. The only way to reduce the rising number of road accidents is for a total ban on drinking while driving. Do you agree or disagree? Make other recommendations.

c. Most British people believe they enjoy and have the right to free speech. How important is it to have the right to say or write whatever you wish in society?
4.4 BRAINSTORMING: There are four essay tasks mentioned in Exercise 4.3. The 21 arguments listed below belong to four essays written as answers to those tasks. Complete the following table by first deciding which argument belongs to which essay, and second, if each argument is for or against the topic question.

The example essay columns have been completed for you:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>For</th>
<th>Against</th>
<th>For</th>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1. Crime is on the increase in cities, and the percentage of robberies in which arms are used is rising, too.
2. Not all those people who receive social welfare payments are able or capable of earning a wage. They have a right to an income, too.
3. A reduction in gun ownership would only occur if there were enough police to enforce the stronger laws.
4. A democracy can only be strong and healthy if it allows people with radical opinions to say what they wish. Words never hurt anyone.
5. Why only ban alcohol? There are many other drugs which impair one's ability to drive. The complete ban of only one substance makes no sense.
6. Guns kill. Since we cannot prohibit their manufacture we must have effective, that is, stronger gun laws.
7. We are not free to do whatever else we like, so why should we believe we have the right to free speech?
8. People should look after themselves. Welfare increases dependency on others and destroys dignity.
9. Almost anyone can buy a gun if they can provide proof of the need to own one. It is too easy to buy a gun.
10. Tests prove that most car accidents occur as a result of speeding. Drivers still speed even when they have not been drinking alcohol. Targeting alcohol does not stop people speeding.
11. The only way to prevent crime is to reduce the need for crime, that is, to reduce poverty. Gun ownership makes no difference.
12. The only persons against a total ban are the manufacturers of alcoholic drinks and pub owners. Unfortunately, these two groups are politically influential and wealthy. Most others support it.
13. The best way to make a better world is to prevent certain people from expressing their opinions. This means censoring what they say so that others do not become influenced.
14. Crime increases if people have no means of support. It is cheaper to pay welfare than police the streets.
15. In countries where it is illegal to drink and drive, the road death toll is far less than in countries which allow alcohol in the bloodstream while driving.
16. If you have no job, you should not expect the government to help you. It is your family’s responsibility.
17. People who oppose free speech are only afraid that what they believe may not be the truth. Many great ideas of the past were first banned from being heard.
18. Since speeding is the leading cause of accidents, and alcohol makes people less careful and more likely to speed, it makes sense to totally ban drinking while driving.
19. Banning people from saying what they wish only makes them try harder to be heard.
20. It would be better if guns were not manufactured. However, they are needed in the military, on the farm and for sporting purposes. Stronger laws have little or no effect, since criminals can always buy guns.
21. People who pay taxes all their working lives have the right to an income if they lose their jobs, especially if it is not their own fault.

Next, for each essay, decide which is the easiest side of the argument to defend (for or against). Is it because there are more arguments, or are they easier to express?
4.5 PLANNING: A university tutor has asked you to write the following essay:

'Although abuses of the system are inevitable, social welfare payments are essential to protect the rights of citizens to a guaranteed minimum income in a modern society.' Discuss.

Complete the plan below with ideas of your own or from Exercise 4.4. Then check with the model answer and plan in the Answer Key on page 120.

</table>

* double quotation marks ( " " ) are also used, but are less common in formal assignment writing since referencing is more usual. However, the IELTS test does not require references.

4.2 PUNCTUATION: Place the correct punctuation marks at the points illustrated within the following texts taken from Reading Passage 4:

A the british political scene is dominated by two major parties that have quite different political agendas however the ideological distance between the labour party and the conservative party has become less marked and their policies more difficult to tell apart in recent years in fact it would be true to say that both parties consist of conservative moderate and radical elements and therefore the general public is often perplexed about which party to vote for nonetheless it is usual to find that a british voter will lean towards supporting one of these two parties and remain faithful to that party for life

B the conservative party on the other hand argues that the best way to ensure a fair division of wealth in the country is to allow more freedom to create it this in turn means more opportunities jobs created etc and therefore more wealth available to all just how the poor are to share in the distribution of this wealth beyond being given at least in theory the opportunity to create it is however less well understood practice of course may make nonsense of even the best theoretical intentions and often the less politically powerful are badly catered for under governments implementing free-for-all policies

4.6 MODAL VERBS (2): Work with a partner if possible, refer to the completed chart above and take it in turns to make accurate sentences using the given modal verb constructions in Exercise 4.5:

e.g. "I might vote for the government candidate (... if... she promises to reduce taxes.)"
"I needn't pay so much in tax this year (... because ... I earnt so little.)"

Try to complete your sentences with words that explain that you understand the meaning of the modal verb construction (use 'if, 'because' etc.).
You might wish to choose a particular topic area for all your answers, or you can choose a different topic for each answer that you give.

4.7 MODAL VERBS (3): Complete the following sentences with the appropriate choice of a modal verb from those given. In each case, a modal choice is not to be used more than once, and TWO of the words cannot be successfully used at all.

a. The latest government crisis (1)......affect the outcome of talks today which British dairy farmers are hoping (2)......determine that Britain (3)......not be required to accept further reductions in dairy exports to the EEC. (dare, will, could, should, must)

b. If the war continues, do we (4)......have a referendum to decide if people (5)......accept the conscription of 18 year olds? (will, must, dare, should)

c. There (6)......be no doubt that Europeans (7)......soon be enjoying the best economical climate for years, (might, can, will, shall)

d. The minister (8)....have realised the policy was unlikely to succeed, and done something to rectify the situation before it (9)......get any worse. (oughtn't to, could, should, won't)

e. We (10)......have to wait and see if the election a(11i)......change the way people feel, but we (12)......not expect too much too soon, (will, shall, should, would, ought to) 4.8 CLAUSES OF TIME: These come before or after the main clause. From the box, add the appropriate time clause (and a comma?) to the given main clauses:

- since the introduction of tighter tax laws
- while voters considered their options
- when a politician is proved to be corrupt
- as soon as the election results came in
- before voters go to the polling booth

a. it was clear that the public was unhappy with the previous government's performance

b. both political parties were busy making even more election promises

c. a government should fully disclose its policies

d. there is usually an increase in accountability of all political representatives

e. more money has become available to the government to implement its policies

4.9 CLAUSES OF CONTRAST: Join the following sentences together with the correct choice of linking word or phrase from those in the brackets:

a. The National Government is responsible for the nation's security. Local governments are responsible for administration at a much lower level. (whereas or even though)

b. The trading policies of most EEC countries are similar. They did not always share a common goal. (while or although)

c. Politicians used to overlook the needs of immigrants to Britain. There was a need for improved English training programmes. (despite or on the other hand)

d. Major strikes cost the country enormous amounts of money. They are sometimes necessary to correct imbalances of power between employers and employees. (on the contrary or however)

e. Social security benefits ensure that the disadvantaged do not suffer. Abuses of the system invariably occur. (in spite of or but)

Now practise using the linking words or phrases above in sentences of your own.

4.10 CLAUSES OF REASON AND PURPOSE: Make the best match of the main clauses on the left, and the clauses of reason and purpose below:

a. The democratic system, while flawed, must be protected at all costs ...

b. Our leaders sometimes have to introduce unpopular financial measures ...

c. Political parties should work together to solve the nation's problems ...

d. Certain groups of people should relinquish their favoured status in society ...

e. In my opinion, the government should not introduce tariffs on imported goods ...

i. ... because certain major issues require compromise. (reason)

ii. ... since it is necessary to combat discriminatory practices. (reason)

iii. ... to protect local industries. (purpose)

iv. ... in order to raise revenue through taxation. (purpose)

v. ... so that the will of the majority of the people is respected. (purpose)

c. Why are the student photo sessions taking place in the Sports Centre this semester?

d. When can Linda show her students the Student Centre? .............................................

5.9 DIRECTIONS (3): With a partner if possible, give the directions of the tour that Ross will give. Remember, he will go in the opposite direction to Linda.

5.1 PREDICTION: Look at the illustration below and the words and phrases taken from the Reading Passage on the next page. With a partner if possible, try to predict exactly what is being discussed:

- bias
- competition is the driving force
- future career requirements
- universities
- criticised as alarmist
- vast amounts of extra money
- educational psychologist
- the workplace
- earning capacity
- social pressures
- candidates without qualifications

5.2 PRE-READING QUESTIONS: Before reading the text on the following page, work with a partner and ask and answer the questions below. Base your answers on your possible knowledge of the topic:

☐ What educational qualifications do you presently have?
☐ Do you intend to gain further academic qualifications? If so, why?
☐ How important is it to have good qualifications these days? Was it always so?
☐ Do you think studying should be for pleasure or simply as a means to get ahead in life?
☐ In your opinion, are employers too concerned with academic qualifications these days?
☐ If you were a boss, would you hire a person lacking suitable academic qualifications?

Now, supply the missing first and third letters in the mystery questions below:

1. -h-uld -m-loyees -e -e-ui- -o -o-t-ine -o -t-dy -n -r-er -o -e-p -h-ir -o-s?

2. -o -o- -h-nk -e-tiary -d-cation -h-uld -e -r-e?
5.3 SKIMMING: Read the text once for the gist (overall idea) and then in detail:

para 1. The need for a satisfactory education is more important than ever before. Nowadays, without a qualification from a reputable school or university, the odds of landing that plum job advertised in the paper are considerably shortened. Moreover, one's present level of education could fall well short of future career requirements.

para 2. It is no secret that competition is the driving force behind the need to obtain increasingly higher qualifications. In the majority of cases, the urge to upgrade is no longer the result of an insatiable thirst for knowledge. The pressure is coming from within the workplace to compete with ever more qualified job applicants, and in many occupations one must now battle with colleagues in the reshuffle for the position one already holds.

para 3. Striving to become better educated is hardly a new concept. Wealthy parents have always been willing to spend the vast amounts of extra money necessary to send their children to schools with a perceived educational edge. Working adults have long attended night schools and refresher courses. Competition for employment has been around since the curse of working for a living began. Is the present situation so very different to that of the past?

para 4. The difference now is that the push is universal and from without as well as within. A student at a comprehensive school receiving low grades is no longer as easily accepted by his or her peers as was once the case. Similarly, in the workplace, unless employees are engaged in part-time study, they may be frowned upon by their employers and peers and have difficulty even standing still. In fact, in these cases, the expectation is for careers to go backwards and earning capacity to take an appreciable nosedive.

para 5. At first glance, the situation would seem to be laudable; a positive response to the exhortations of politicians for us all to raise our intellectual standards and help improve the level of intelligence within the community. Yet there are serious ramifications according to at least one educational psychologist. Dr. Brendan Gatsby has caused some controversy in academic circles by suggesting that a bias towards what he terms 'paper excellence' might cause more problems than it is supposed to solve. Gatsby raises a number of issues that affect the individual as well as society in general.

para 6. Firstly, he believes the extra workload involved is resulting in abnormally high stress levels in both students at comprehensive schools and adults studying after working hours. Secondly, skills which might be more relevant to the undertaking of a sought-after job are being overlooked by employers not interviewing candidates without qualifications on paper. These two areas of concern for the individual are causing physical as well as emotional stress.

para 7. Gatsby also argues that there are attitudinal changes within society to the exalted role education now plays in determining how the spoils of working life are distributed. Individuals of all ages are being driven by social pressures to achieve academic success solely for monetary considerations instead of for the joy of enlightenment. There is the danger that some universities are becoming degree factories with an attendant drop in standards. Furthermore, our education system may be rewarding doggedness above creativity; the very thing tutors ought-to be encouraging us to avoid. But the most undesirable effect of this academic paper chase, Gatsby says, is the disadvantage that 'user pays' higher education confers on the poor, who invariably lose out to the more financially favoured.

para 8. Naturally, although there is agreement that learning can cause stress, Gatsby's comments regarding university standards have been roundly criticised as alarmist by most educationists who point out that, by any standard of measurement, Britain's education system overall, at both secondary and tertiary levels, is equal to that of any in the world.

5.4 MATCHING HEADINGS (1): Match the headings on page 84 to the paragraphs in the text. The first paragraph has been done for you:

Paragraph 1...4 Paragraph 5
Paragraph 2... Paragraph 6
Paragraph 3... Paragraph 7...
Paragraph 4... Paragraph 8...
a. Causes of concern for the individual.
b. The struggle for better education results in parents sending children to costlier schools.
c. Doubts as to whether competition is a modern phenomenon.
d. The value of education in securing employment.
e. Questions raised concerning the over-emphasis placed on paper qualifications.
f. Reaction to criticism of perceived bias towards paper qualifications.
g. Social consequences of the push for further education.
h. Comprehensive school students no longer receive low grades.
i. Competition in the workplace increasing the need for higher qualifications.
j. Pressure to perform well at school and continue study while working.
k. Positive response to the urging of educationalists to increase learning.
l. Dr. Gatsby proves that learning causes stress.
m. The disadvantage of 'user pays' education systems.

5.5 MATCHING HEADINGS (2): Next, match the 5 wrong answers above with the 3 reasons why they are incorrect given below. Note that some reasons are used twice:

Answers

1. The (possible) answer is not the main idea of the paragraph but an example supporting the main idea.
   b, ........
2. The (possible) answer is not a statement made in the text.
   ................
3. The (possible) answer is mentioned in the paragraph but the main point of the paragraph is an alternative viewpoint.

5.6 MATCHING DEFINITIONS: Match the left column words and phrases (taken from the text) with the meanings in the right column:

1) i. the odds are shortened
   ii. plum job
   iii. fall well short (of)
   iv. driving force
   v. urge to upgrade

WRITING EXERCISES 5.1 - 5.5

5.1 PHRASE INSERTION: Practice for Writing Task 1:
Insert the correct words and phrases from the flowchart below in the blank spaces in sentences 'a' to 'm' which form a model answer to the task.

The flowchart below shows the process involved in writing a formal academic essay for a particular university course.

Describe the stages of the process in a report for a university lecturer.

Preparation and Writing of a Formal Academic Essay

a. For this university course an essay is completed in (1) ____________________.
b. (2) ____________________ a private tutorial in which the task and topic are fully discussed with the tutor.
c. A reading list should be obtained, detailing useful resource material.
d. The (3) ____________________ involves conducting suitable research.
e. Notes are taken from available literature at the library, and data collected from questionnaires, interviews and surveys.
f. (4) ____________________ is the third stage.
g. First, it is necessary to organise the content of the essay and produce (5) ____________________.
h. Next, the draft is written in the acceptable (6) ____________________ and checked for appropriate language,
i. (7) ____________________ is another tutorial or study group discussion, during which problem areas are analysed and further ideas and suggestions are noted.
j. The fifth stage includes reading the resource material again before (8) ____________________ using suggestions from stage four.
k. Once completed, all quotations should be checked for errors.
l. The sixth stage consists of writing (9) ____________________ of the essay.
m. do) ____________________ before adding a title page and compiling a bibliography. The essay should then be submitted before the deadline for completion.

5.2 LAYOUT AND ORGANISATION: Writing Task 1:

Notice that the sentences that make up the model answer on page 87 are in the correct order but are not in paragraphs. Decide how many paragraphs the minimum 150 word description of the diagram will require.

REMEMBER: (For further advice, refer to ‘101 Helpful Hints for IELTS’)

1. You do not need a separate paragraph for the introduction in the IELTS Writing Task 1. Your general descriptive statement can be attached to the first sentence of the body paragraph.

2. You do not need a paragraph for each stage of the process in the IELTS Writing Task 1 because the paragraphs would be too short. Combine some of the stages together in a paragraph.

3. You do not need a separate conclusion in Writing Task 1. The last stage of the process (or final description) will be sufficient. There is usually no need to conclude since you are not providing an argument or giving opinions in Writing Task 1.

Next, carefully read the ‘10 Point Guide to Presentation and Layout’ on page 127 (reprinted from ‘101 Helpful Hints for IELTS’) before writing out the model answer on the lines below by combining sentences 'a' to 'm' on page 87. Aim to present your work legibly and as neatly as possible.

WRITING TASK 1:
PART 5 - YOUTH AND EDUCATION

5.3 SENTENCE CONSTRUCTION: Writing Task 2:
A university lecturer has asked you to write an essay on the following topic:

'Discuss the causes and some effects of widespread drug use by young people in modern day society. Make any recommendations you feel are necessary to help fight youth drug abuse.'

Add the nouns, noun phrases, and pronoun phrases in the brackets below to the incomplete sentences taken from the model answer to the task above. The first one has been done as an example:

a. Youth drug abuse is a serious problem nowadays in many cultures.
   - is - nowadays in - .
   ( a serious problem / many cultures / youth drug abuse )

b. ...........................................................................................................

Not only is - on the rise, but - are experimenting with - .
( alcohol and tobacco / children as young as 10 years old / illegal drug use )

c. ...........................................................................................................

- are unclear, but - blame - .
( certain sociologists / the examples set by their elders / the reasons for this behaviour )

d. ...........................................................................................................

- are, in effect, telling - that it is acceptable to abuse - with - .
( drugs / their children / their bodies / parents who drink and smoke to excess )

e. ...........................................................................................................

Consequently, - may have - even if - are against - .
( children / their parents / their use / a similar view towards illegal drugs )

f. ...........................................................................................................

In addition, - can only confuse - who are also taught at - that - is wrong.
( children / drug abuse / school / drug use shown on television and in films )

The sentences above constitute the introduction and the first paragraph of the body of the essay. Look at the main points of the paragraphs expressed below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Introduction</th>
<th>Body Para. 1</th>
<th>Body Para. 2</th>
<th>Body Para. 3</th>
<th>Conclusion</th>

<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
5.4 PARAGRAPHS: The sentences below constitute the second and third paragraphs of the body, and the conclusion of the model essay, in the correct order but unseparated. Decide where the paragraphs should begin and end:

- g. The pressure on young people to perform well at school in order to compete for jobs is a possible cause of the problem.
- h. Many believe they cannot live up to their parents’ expectations and feel a sense of hopelessness.
- i. Also, the widespread availability of drugs means teenagers are faced with the temptation to experiment.
- j. Drugs are used as a means of expressing dissatisfaction with the pressures they face in society.
- k. The effects of drug abuse are well known.
- l. Many young people’s talents are wasted and addiction to hard drugs can cost a user his or her life.
- m. Furthermore, those who drink and drive may be involved in fatal road accidents.
- n. The cost to society is great, and enormous amounts of money are spent on convicting drug dealers and on education programmes.
- o. To conclude, I recommend that the only sensible way to solve this problem is to educate young people about the dangers of drug use and to take steps to reduce the pressure of competition placed upon them.

5.5 LAYOUT: Writing Task 2.
Now, carefully read the '10 Point Guide to Presentation and Layout' on page 127 (reprinted from '101 Helpful Hints for IELTS') before writing out the model essay on the lines below by combining sentences 'a' to 'V' above and on the previous page. Pay particular attention to the way in which you separate your paragraphs. (Are you using the modern or traditional method?)

WRITING TASK 2:
5.1 PUNCTUATION (1): Place the correct punctuation marks at the points illustrated within the following texts taken from Reading Passage 5:

A. striving to become better educated is hardly a new concept wealthy parents have always been willing to spend the vast amounts of extra money necessary to send their children to schools with a perceived educational edge working adults have long attended night schools and refresher courses competition for employment has been around since the curse of working for a living began is the present situation so very different to that of the past

PART 5 - YOUTH AND EDUCATION

SPELLING EXERCISES  5.1 - 5.2

5.1 SPELLING ERRORS: Locate all the spelling errors in the following short passage. There are exactly 9 of them.

Young people are usually extremely critical of decisions made by persons in authority. This attitude is not always acceptable to the more powerful members of a society. They may feel threatened by the idealism of some university students; an idealism which often prevents the latter from viewing an issue objectively. Yet without student protests, certain injustices within society might never be exposed.

Although the community and the media usually attack student unrest at the time, many years later, as community attitudes change, the reasons for that student action become clearer, and generally their ideas, if not their methods, are considered more acceptable. If we can understand that it is probably in societies best interest for the young to question existing attitudes and injustices, we might realise that we would do well to listen more closely to what they have to say.

Perhaps older people should become more tolerant of the ideas and creative expression of the younger generation. Too often the ideas they express are dismissed simply because they are new. On the other hand, young people ought to recognise when they are being impossibly selfish and their demands are too impractical.

5.3 COMPARISON & CONTRAST (1): Complete the chart by deciding which two things are being compared or contrasted in the following sentences. Then, note the markers used and state whether they are markers of comparison or contrast. First, look at the example that is done for you:

Ex: The difference between the attitude of female students and that of male students to the study of mathematics, is noticeable at an early age.

i. A few years ago, computers were used only in business, in medicine, and for scientific research, whereas these days they are common in almost all schools.

ii. Young people are often extremely inquisitive and creative. By comparison, the older one gets, the less inclined one is to experiment with new ideas.

iii. Male and female students are quite different to each other with regard to the age at which they begin to develop an intellectual self-discipline.

iv. Sport is an important subject at a comprehensive school. Likewise, sporting activities should not be overlooked when a student is engaged in study at university.

v. Youth today are nowhere near as selfish and unaware of what is happening in the world as the media would have us believe.

vi. While it is common knowledge that European students are usually quite radical on campus, it is generally true that they work hard to complete their studies.

5.4 COMPARISON & CONTRAST (2): Now compare or contrast the items listed below using similar constructions to those used in Exercise 5.3:

- the education system in your country. . . . & . . . the education system in Britain
- the teaching style in your country. . . . & . . . the teaching style in Britain
- the competition for university places in your country. . . . & . . . and in Britain
- the cost of tertiary education in your country. . . . & . . . and in Britain
- a typical classroom in your country. . . . & . . . and in Britain
- the languages taught in your high school. . . . & . . . and in British comprehensive schools

You might wish to refer to the Stage 2 topics on pages 77 & 78 of '101 Helpful Hints for IELTS' to give you ideas for items of your own choice to compare or contrast.
5.5 SUPERLATIVES: Construct sentences expressing the absolute quality of the following people and things, according to the information in brackets:

Ex: The Eiffel Tower (size/iron tower/Europe) - The Eiffel Tower is the largest iron tower in Europe.

1. Ayers Rock, Australia, (big/rock/world)
2. Amazon River (length/river/world)
3. Mont. Blanc (height/mountain/Europe)
4. United States (affluence/nation)

6. Diesel engine (economy/vehicle engine)
7. Pluto (understanding/planet in the solar system)
8. A score of 9 in IELTS (?)
9. Adolf Hitler (?)
10. Albert Einstein (?)

5.6 ADVERBS (1): Note the following types of adverbs:

a. Adverbs of degree ... make adjectives, adverbs or verbs stronger or weaker
b. Adverbs of manner ... indicate how something happens
c. Adverbs of place and time ... indicate where or when something happens
d. Adverbs of frequency ... indicate how often something happens
e. Sentence adverbs ... indicate an attitude to the whole sentence
f. Adverbs in phrasal verbs ... describe the verb (with a noun phrase following)
g. Prepositional adverbs ... describe the verb (with no noun phrase following)

The argument about (1) precisely who should bear the cost of educating our children has (2) recently surfaced in the media as a result of government efforts to (3) substantially cut (4) back the funding of comprehensive schools. But before this can be done it will become necessary to determine if the voting public will (5) readily accept the view that free education is no longer a basic right, and that the 'user pays' principle should apply. The government's argument is that this principle is (6) frequently applied elsewhere, so why not in education?

Most hope the government's plan falls (7) through, and few accept that parents of children at comprehensive schools should be forced to pay extra. After all, (8) at present, they must supply uniforms, pay for textbooks, and incur many other hidden fees. Also, the entire community (9) eventually benefits from money spent on education. (10) In fact, in that sense we are all 'users'. Nonetheless, the government is (11) strongly insisting that children at comprehensive schools are the immediate beneficiaries, and therefore their parents should expect to (12) partially foot the bill, as parents with children at private schools do in full.

5.7 ADVERBS (2): Adverbs and adverbial phrases can assist you to write informative, precise and therefore more effective sentences. They often inform the reader of the writer's feelings and attitudes to what is being said. Write some sentences which comment on the issues raised in the text in Exercise 5.6 above. Be sure to include some adverbs or adverbial phrases in your sentences.

5.1 BASIC INFORMATION QUIZ: Answer the following questions taken from the Introduction to IELTS in '101 Helpful Hints for IELTS':

a. How long does the entire IELTS test take to complete?
   - 2 hours 45 minutes?
   - 2 hours 50 minutes?
   - 2 hours 55 minutes?

b. How long does it usually take to receive your IELTS test results?
   - within one week?
   - within ten days?
   - within two weeks?

c. How many times do you hear the Listening Sub-test tape in the examination?
   - once only?
   - twice?
   - three times?

d. How many passages does the Reading Sub-test consist of?
   - three passages?
   - four passages?
   - any number of passages?

e. In which Writing Sub-test task might you be asked to give your opinions?
   - Writing Task 1?
   - Writing Task 2?
   - both tasks?

f. How many parts are there to the Speaking Sub-test?
   - three parts?
   - four parts?
   - five parts?

g. Which part of the Speaking Sub-test requires you to speak on a particular topic?
   - Part 2?
   - Part 3?
   - no part of the test?

h. The Sub-tests are each marked from 0 to 9. In which tests are half marks possible?
   - Reading and Listening
   - Writing and Speaking
   - all Sub-tests?

i. How long must you wait before taking the IELTS test again?
   - one month?
   - three months?
   - no restriction?

5.2 LISTENING HELP QUIZ: Answer the following questions taken from the Listening Help Section in '101 Helpful Hints for IELTS':

1. The secret to increasing your Listening Test skills is to:
   a. predict what you may hear
   b. listen more intensely to the tape when it is played a second time
   c. guess the answers if you are unsure

2. Clues to the answer and sometimes the answers themselves are:
   a. not heard on the tape
   b. found in print in the test booklet
   c. written on the Answer Sheet

3. When listening for an answer you should be aware that the speaker on the tape:
   a. might not speak the answer clearly
   b. could give the wrong answer
   c. may change his or her mind or correct what is said 5.3 READING HELP QUIZ: Answer the following True or False questions based on information given in the Reading Help Section of the book:

a. You must always answer the questions in the order they are presented. T F
b. You must write the answers on the Answer Sheet as you do the test. T F
c. It is wise to read the reading passages first before looking at the questions. T F
d. The topic sentence of a paragraph is always the first sentence. T F
e. The answer you are looking for is not always within the reading text itself. T F
f. In a gapfill task the answer you need may be repeated in the text. T F
g. You should continue to answer the questions in a task even though an advised time to complete the task has passed. T F

5.4 WRITING HELP QUIZ: Answer the following short-answer questions based on information given in the Writing Help Section of the book:

a. What should you do before you begin to write the answers to both writing tasks?

b. Should you always write a separate introduction and conclusion in Writing Task 1?

c. You should separate the question in Tasks 1 & 2 into two parts. What are they?

d. What is the name given to the type of paragraph included to balance an essay that requires an argument?

5.5 SPEAKING HELP QUIZ: From the list below, decide what one should do and should not do in the Speaking Sub-test based on information given in the Speaking Help Section of the book:

a. If the examiner shakes your hand, return his or her handshake confidently.

b. Answer questions briefly and wait for the next question.

c. Memorise a short speech on a particular topic to use in the test.

d. Organise your reply to a topic that is given to you to speak about.

e. Ask the examiner to repeat a question that you do not fully understand.

f. Read aloud the words printed on the topic prompt card given to you.

g. Try to impress the examiner with your large vocabulary and complex ideas.

h. If you have no plans for the future, explain that to the examiner.

i. After the test is over, ask the examiner to give you an idea of your speaking ability.

1.1 Narrator: 202 Useful Exercises for IELTS. Part One. Listening Exercise 1.1. Listen to the following sentences, pausing your machine after each sentence to write down the essential details of what you have heard:

- Edinburgh is the capital city of Scotland.
- The city is often regarded as the most cultured and cosmopolitan city north of London.
- The annual Edinburgh International Festival attracts over a million visitors from all around the world.
- The centre of the city is in two parts: the New Town and the Old Town.
- The New Town was designed to improve upon the cramped and crowded city conditions.
- The Old Town, medieval in style, is a maze of narrow alleyways down which sewage once ran freely.
- The Festival is actually a concurrent series of separate arts festivals lasting for three weeks.
- Now the largest Arts festival on Earth, it was once dominated by opera.
- Today, festival performances range in taste from the exotic and controversial to the highly sophisticated.
- This most romantic of cities boasts a spectacular castle, set high on top of an extinct volcanic rock.

1.2 Narrator: Exercise 1.2. A. Write down the numbers you hear in the following sentences:

- The earliest known inhabitants established settlements in Scotland in 6000 B.C.
- Scotland is 275 miles long and, at its broadest point, only 150 miles wide.
- Edinburgh averages 140 days of rain a year, with an average of 1.89 and 2.72 inches in January and July respectively.
- Its average temperature in summer is 65 degrees Fahrenheit or 18 degrees centigrade.
- Its average temperature in winter is 43 degrees Fahrenheit or 6 degrees centigrade.
- The original Celtic language, Gaelic, is understood by less than 2% of the Scottish population.
- In 1992, polls showed that 1 out of 2 Scots favoured independence from England.
- Edinburgh Zoo, with Scotland's largest animal collection, is set amidst 197.6 hectares of parkland.
- Robbie Burns, Scotland's most revered poet, was born on January 25, 1759 in a cottage in Alloway.
- There are more than 440 golf courses in Scotland; the game being played as long ago as the 1400s.

1.3 Narrator: Exercise 1.3. Radio Item 1:

RADIO ITEM This week's controversial topic is... 'violent video games'. Are they responsible for a rise in the number of attacks by children in the schoolyard?' Some social commentators say yes. Worse, it has been suggested that two recent killings by teenagers were prompted by the playing of video games with extreme content. But is it proven? The jury is out on this issue. Not nearly enough research has been done to either prove or disprove that violent gaming leads to violence in children in real life. What is known is that a child who is already disturbed might certainly react violently after playing a violent computer game; but a psychotic child might just as easily react inappropriately to having seen a family video or after reading the newspaper.

Unfortunately, it is too early to say yet whether the immense amount of violence on TV and in video games has a deleterious effect on children, but one thing is certain - violence sells. And, interestingly, violence appeals far more to young male video gamers than to young female players; the latter preferring games which rely more on discovery and the development of the relationships between the characters onscreen. Does this prove that boys are somehow instinctively more violent than girls? Not necessarily. It could merely be that the way in which non-

LECTURE Can a new language be learnt in six weeks as some courses promise? Learning a language is not an easy task, though the reason why it is so difficult cannot be explained without an understanding of how human language is acquired. Linguists have many theories, but it is still a mystery and one that may never be fully solved. Since hard and fast facts about first language acquisition are in short supply, it is not surprising to find that there are numerous competing theories on how best to learn a second or third language. One thing is certain, though, it doesn’t happen overnight. Or does it?

One theory that has been promoted for some years now is that of subliminal language learning - taking words into your mind while not consciously aware of them. Play a cassette tape of words and phrases you wish to learn while you are asleep or perhaps while driving a car. It doesn’t matter if you listen to them or not, or even if the words are within your normal range of hearing. Your brain will ‘hear’ the words and store them deep within your mind, ready for easier extraction when you practice certain exercises containing those words and phrases.

The argument goes like this: when you learnt your own language you had been spoken to and were constantly exposed to words in that language from the day you were born and possibly even before you were born. Yes, babies react to words spoken to them inside the mother’s womb. This constant exposure ensured that the words were already planted in your mind before you actually learnt them. The subliminal method, then, is based on similar principles. Even having the TV or radio on all day in another language serves the same purpose. But best results come from playing tapes with specially selected words and phrases over and over again.

Recent surveys seem to indicate that early success in learning a foreign language requires at least two other conditions to be met. First of all, the range of vocabulary you need to learn should be restricted. It has been known for decades now that most of one needs to say everyday in the English language can be effectively communicated with a vocabulary of just 760 words. Secondly, the practice you do needs to focus on manipulations of those very same words. When starting to learn a language, reading the newspaper in that language is largely a waste of time - there are far too many new words to learn. Later, of course, reading all kinds of material in the new language is essential.

Remember that learning a language is something you have already managed. All of us are constantly, if not always consciously, engaged in increasing the knowledge of our own language, and the language itself is changing slowly every day. Language learning is a part of everyone's daily life. The only real problem with most quick-fix language learning solutions is that they do not take into account one vital difference between the learning of one’s first language and the learning of other languages. And that is, people who speak different languages actually think in very different ways. No wonder students are suspicious of six week courses that promise the earth!
2.1 Narrator: Part Two. Listening Exercise 2.1. Listen to the following sentences, pausing your machine after each sentence to write down the essential details of what you have heard:

a. Cardiff has been the official capital of Wales since only 1955.

b. This city of 270,000 people is prosperous, with a large university and an extraordinary castle.

c. Wales has some extremely beautiful scenery, but also some of the most depressing coal-mining towns.

d. More than 50% of the pits closed during the 1930s, and the last large coal mine in Wales closed in 1994.

e. Nuclear power stations now supply much of the energy that was once derived solely from coal.

f. The major industry in Wales these days is tourism, which accounts for over 10% of jobs in the region.

g. Cardiff was once the world's busiest coal port, producing one third of the world's coal.

h. The city was heavily bombed during the Second World War, because of its strategic importance.

i. Fortunately, since the '60s, much of the industrial damage to the Welsh environment has been reversed.

j. The Cardiff Bay Project, a 30 minute walk from the city centre, has rejuvenated the old dock area, and nearby mud flats have been turned into a freshwater lake.

2.2 Narrator: Exercise 2.2. A. Write down the numbers you hear in the following sentences:

i. Wales is approximately 170 miles long and 60 miles wide; 8000 square miles in total.

ii. Over 2.9 million people live in Wales; they comprise almost 5% of the total population of Britain.

iii. 1.8 million people (60% of the Welsh population) live in the highly industrialised South-east region.

iv. The Welsh language is now spoken by over 500,000 people, mostly in the north.

v. The distance from London to Cardiff is 155 miles and takes about 3 hours by car.

vi. In 1302, the conquering English king Edward I gave the title of the Prince of Wales to his eldest son.

vii. Swansea, birthplace of the famous playwright and poet Dylan Thomas, is the second largest city in Wales with around 200,000 people.

viii. The highest peak in South Wales is Pen-y-Fan (2907 ft), but Snowdon is the highest in Wales at 3650 ft.

ix. The Snowdon Mountain Railway, built in 1896, will take you to the top daily in just under 60 minutes.

x. The Welsh village with the longest name in Britain has 58 letters in its name.

B Narrator: B. Spell correctly the longest named village in Britain. The name is one word of 58 letters long, but will be dictated in 10 parts:

LLANFAIR PWYLL GWYNGLL GOGERY CHWYRN DROBWLL LLAN TYSILIO GOGO GOCH

i. ii. iii. iv. v. vi. vii. viii. ix. x.

Welsh Translation: 'St Mary's Church by the pool of the white hazel trees, near the rapid whirlpool, by the red cave of the Church of St Tsilio'.

C Narrator: C. Spell correctly the names of the following persons associated with Wales:

i. Athelstan - (Anglo-Saxon king of England, reluctantly accepted by the Welsh kings as their leader, so that they could be saved from the Viking invaders)

ii. Owain Glyndwr - (leader of last revolt against England; defeated by Henry TV)

iii. Richard Trevithick - (his engine made the world's first train journey in Wales in 1804)

iv. William Burges - (architect and interior designer of Cardiff Castle in the late 19th century)

v. Saunders Lewis - (one of Wales' greatest modern writers; founded the Welsh National Party)

vi. Gwynfor Evans - (charismatic political leader of the Welsh National Party)

vii. Augustus John - (Wales' most famous artist - particularly of portraits) viii. Dylan Thomas - (probably the best known and loved of Welsh writers; died in America while on a literary tour - of an overdose of whisky)

ix. Shirley Bassey - (internationally acclaimed singer, born in the docklands of Cardiff)

x. Richard Burton - (famed Hollywood actor; twice married to Elizabeth Taylor)

D Narrator: D. Write down the telephone numbers of the following Welsh Youth Hostels:

i. Cardiff (01222-462303) v. Harlech (01341-241287) ix. Monmouth (01600-715116)

ii. Swansea (01792-390706) vii. Pen-y-Pass (01286-870428) x. Aberystwyth (0197085-693)

iii. Brecon (01874-665270) viii. Saundersfoot (01834-812333)

iv. Bala (01678-521109) ii. xv. St David's (01437-720345)

2.3 Narrator: Exercise 2.3. Radio Item 3:

RADIO Announcer: Today's edition of 'PlanetWatch' brings you our latest world environmental report. This week, Troy Hartwell takes a brief look at the most precious substance on Earth: water.

Troy: The surface of our planet is two-thirds water, of which 97% is seawater and therefore undrinkable; a further 2% is ice - unusable - that is, because it is locked up in the polar icecaps. This leaves a comparatively minute area of 12,600 cubic kilometres of fresh water, scattered unevenly about the globe, for drinking, bathing and other personal use. Of course, by far the largest percentage of available fresh water is used for farming - over 70% - while industry consumes up to 25%.

The major problem is that our water is far too easily contaminated in a world which produces a staggering amount of pesticides from agriculture as well as industrial waste from manufacturing plants - a large proportion of which ends up in the rivers and streams that feed the reservoirs we rely on to supply us with fresh water. In addition, in many poor and developing countries of the world, sewage is added untreated to flowing and non-flowing water sources causing devastating outbreaks of disease and, sadly, more than 25,000 deaths per day. One startling statistic, which shows the extent of water pollution in a major nation, is taken from a recent United Nations report which estimates that over 78% of people in China drink from polluted water supplies.

Unfortunately, the enormous efforts that humankind has taken to provide plentiful fresh water for all - I refer to the more than 35,000 large dam and hydro-electric turbine construction projects throughout the world - these might well be ultimately responsible for failing water tables, the shrinking of natural lakes, and shrivelling rivers everywhere. One consequence of artificially diverting massive amounts of water is the loss of trees, plants and wildlife that depend on wet areas that are fast drying up. It is clear the 21st century's greatest challenge will be to reverse these worrying trends towards a drier and, therefore, dirtier world. Troy Hartwell for 'Planet Watch'.

Announcer: School project kits on this week's topic are available by telephoning this number now: 0171-825-992. I'll repeat that number ... 0171-825-992.

RADIO Narrator: Radio Item 4:

ITEM This is 'Postcards from the Edge of the World'. I'm Catherine Small with a disturbing story from the Great Barrier Reef in Northern Queensland, Australia. Residents of the sleepy beachside town of Carrsville near the luxurious resort of Port Charles were woken yesterday at 6:20 a.m. to the sound of a number of explosions that many were convinced was either a serious thunderstorm, blasts of gas or even planes nose-diving into the sea! It turned out, however, that the sounds heard were actually part of a series of 25 controlled explosions set off approximately 200 metres offshore and conducted by marine authorities in an attempt to rid the sea of dangerous swarms of Portuguese Man-O'-War jellyfish that have been plaguing the local beaches for the past two years.

No-one is certain why the jellyfish have made a home in the once clear blue waters near the popular resort, but what is certain is that something had to be done. The town relies almost exclusively on the resort and tourism for its survival; but Carrsville beach has been strewn with the deadly jellyfish now for the last two summers, and fishing and bathing are no longer possible. Last year, the Shire Council decided to enlist the help of Professor Stephen Blunt, a British marine biologist working with the biology department at the University of Northern Queensland, who proposed a controversial solution to the problem involving the foreshortening of the 2 kilometre long rock shelf that lies 200 metres out to sea. The shelf apparently traps the creatures before they have the chance to escape back to the ocean and this, in turn, encourages them to increase in numbers.

Global warming is thought to be at least partly responsible for slight changes in the recent patterns of moon tides which have, however, been enough to upset the delicate natural balance - allowing the jellyfish to reach the shore in numbers previously unheard of. By blasting away almost half of the rock shelf, Professor Blunt hopes the jellyfish will soon be a thing of the past. If the technique is successful, it may be used along other sensitive coastal waters of Northern Queensland. Environmentalist groups are observing the experiment with caution.

Lecture 2: To be living at the start of the new millennium is to exist in the most advanced technological era in history. It is easy to forget that we are still surrounded by countless opportunities to get close to the earth, the sea and all the other wonders of the natural environment. But for how long? Fortunately, the agricultural and industrial excesses of the past fifty years are beginning to be reversed, and, with the establishment of such watchdog organisations as Greenpeace and the World Wildlife Fund, it is likely that government policies which threaten the environment will come under ever-increasing scrutiny. Environmental agreements involving a concensus of world nations once thought impossible promise reductions in levels of so-called 'Greenhouse' gases, and the banning of the production of substances which interfere with key eco-processes such as those which deplete the ozone layer.

In Britain, perhaps the most encouraging sign is the recent change in political thinking, even among the conservative elements of the major political parties. Though once there was believed to be little political sense in pushing environmental policies in elections, 'green' political parties with policies geared towards saving the environment are supported by a significant number of electors whose views can therefore make a lasting difference. However, there is still much to be done and little room for complacency. Unchecked consumerism in developed nations, and the destruction of virgin hardwood forests in developing countries for short-term financial gain are but two examples of issues where greed is the direct cause of environmental ruin. But what is often overlooked, even by well-intentioned 'forces for the good' such as Greenpeace, is that the best recipe for failure is poverty. Economic growth and technological progress are not the enemies of environmental protection, but the means by which protection programmes can be implemented and conservation attained. High-tech solutions ranging from cheaper food production to safer waste disposal, from cleaner cars to more efficient energy sources - these can only come about if economic growth continues. It is very much in our interest to help make the world a richer, and therefore more environmentally-friendly, place to live.
3.1 Narrator: Part Three. Listening Exercise 3.1. Listen to the following sentences, pausing your machine after each sentence to write down the essential details of what you have heard:

a. Manchester, one of the most important cities in England, is considered by some the northern capital.
b. Situated in the northwest, 39 miles inland, Manchester is the third largest urbanised area in England.
c. Technological innovation during the Industrial Revolution enabled the city to become the world’s major cotton-milling centre in the 19th century.
d. Unfortunately, this rapid industrialisation brought prosperity only to the owners of the many factories.
e. The rise of Communism overseas was, in part, a reaction against the exploitation of workers in Manchester.
f. Eventually, the city declined in importance, but cotton goods are still known worldwide as Manchester goods.
g. Liverpool, now the sixth largest city in England, was the second major city of the British Empire.
h. The Liverpool docks were once the site of the busiest shipbuilding activity in the world.
i. Both cities boast impressive museums documenting the good and bad uses of industrial technology.
j. Manchester and Liverpool are these days thriving centres of activity and club entertainment for youth.

3.2 Narrator: Exercise 3.2. A. Write down the numbers you hear in the following sentences:

A i. Manchester is 185 miles distance from London and 35 miles from Liverpool, ii. Over 10 million passengers passed through Manchester Airport in 1997.
iii. The new 2400-seater Bridgewater Hall houses northern England’s best orchestra, the Halle.
iv. The first steam-operated cotton mill opened in Manchester in 1783.
v. The University of Manchester has over 18,000 students and almost 3000 academic staff.
vi. Manchester’s Museum of Science and Industry is open 7 hours a day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.
vii. Inside is a working replica of a very early steam train, The Planet, built in 1830 and with a speed of 30 mph.
viii. Liverpool stretches about 13 miles along the River Mersey, but the city centre is only 1\(\frac{1}{4}\) square miles in size.
ix. The population of Liverpool peaked in 1931 at 855,000; today it is just over 519,000.
x. For over 400 years, tens of millions of African slaves were shipped through Liverpool bound for America.

B Narrator: B. Spell correctly the names of these towns and cities in the Northwest of England:

i. BLACKPOOL iv. LANCASTER vii. BOLTON x. PRESTON
ii. WARRINGTON v. KNUTSFORD viii. NORTHWICH
iii. CREWE vi. HEYSHAM ix. CLITHEROE

C Narrator: C. Spell correctly the names of the following persons associated with Manchester and Liverpool:

i. King John - (gave Liverpool a Royal Charter in 1207; chief port for trade with Ireland)
ii. John Kay - (inventor of the flying shuttle in 1733 which began the revolution in spinning)
iii. Richard Arkwright - (patented a machine for spinning cotton thread in 1769)
iv. George Stephenson - (his locomotive was the first to be used on the Liverpool-Manchester Railway)
v. William Lever - (English soap maker and industrialist who built a Sunlight soap factory)
vi. Friedrich Engels - (manager of textile factory in Manchester, and co-founder of Communism)
vii. Alfred Waterhouse - (designed the imposing Victorian neo-Gothic Town Hall in Manchester) viii. Ford Madox Brown - (painter, whose series of frescoes depict historical events in Manchester)
ix. Keir Hardie - (politician who urged workers to strike leading to riots in Liverpool in 1911)
x. John Lennon - (Liverpudlian singer, whose songwriting career helped create worldwide acceptance of working-class ethics; murdered in New York in 1980)

D Narrator: D. Use abbreviations to quickly note down the distances and rail travel times of the following cities in the north of England:

i. Shrewsbury (1 hour from Manchester) vi. Lincoln (1\(\frac{1}{2}\) hours from London)
ii. Chester (17 miles south of Liverpool) vii. York (188 miles north of London)
iii. Liverpool (2\(\frac{1}{2}\) hours from London) viii. Liverpool (25 minutes from Manchester)
iv. Leeds (75 miles north-east of Liverpool) ix. York (2 hours from London)
v. Shrewsbury (68 miles east of Manchester) x. Lincoln (132 miles north of London)

3.3 Narrator: Exercise 3.3. Radio Item 5:

RADIO Welcome to ‘Software World’ - bringing you the very latest information on what is currently available on CD-ROM. Are you a director or producer looking for an unusual actor to play a part in a new movie project, or with 5 that special look for a new commercial on TV? OK. The usual procedure would be to contact a theatrical agency who would try and sell you the idea of using one of the actors listed on their books. Books? Too old-fashioned for you? Then get yourself a copy of this latest electronic database called ‘The Electronic Curtain’. The brainchild of casting agent Fred Harkney of the Better Talent Agency, he says he got the idea of an actor's dictation: Air pollution / is probably the modern world's greatest threat. / Water can be filtered, / land can be cleared, / it can be a nightmare trying to remember just which actor has done what, or just what an actor can do. The database lists details of over 5500 actors: TV shows they have appeared in, special skills they possess - everything down to the colour of their eyes and other distinguishing physical features. By entering the details of the type of person you are looking for, the database quickly locates only those persons with the particular qualities requested.

One problem though, is that many actors feel it is too impersonal, and they could be missing out on much needed auditions for parts in theatrical shows. On the other hand, it might just get them that elusive job. The days of nervous nail-biting while waiting around to give an audition could well and truly be over. And all because of a small plastic disk. For product details ring this number now: 0171-379-6000. That number again ... 0171-379-6000.

item: Welcome to 'Inventors' Corner'. This week we take a look at an invention that may well change the way in which you listen to your television set. Four years and twenty thousand pounds later, Susan Schofield of Cardiff, Wales, believes she has the answer to that nagging problem of listening to advertisements at twice the volume of the program you are watching. Annoyed at having to reach for the remote control every time an advertisement comes on the screen simply to avoid being deafened, she came up with the idea of a small device that detects when an advert is being shown, and automatically reduces the volume to a preset level. Why not cut out the sound completely? Well, that's possible if you wish, but too often, of course, the viewer misses the first few seconds of the show returning to the screen. Now, the volume is totally at your control.

Just how the device works is a patented secret, but together with her husband, a television repairman by trade, she was able to create an electronic box no bigger than your thumb that attaches to the back of the remote control itself. The only drawback is the remote must always be pointed directly at the TV set. However, Susan doesn't think this will detract from its selling power, and Susan ought to know. It was she who invented that other best-selling gadget we featured on the show two years ago. I refer, of course, to the telephone answering machine that automatically answers with a message that changes depending on the voice of the caller. Looks like Susan's done it again, with what she calls the 'Ad Subtractor'.

3.8 narrator: Exercise 3.8. Dictation 1:

dictation: Air pollution / is probably the modern world's greatest threat. / Water can be filtered, / land can be cleared, / but filthy air can only be filtered / by the nose and lungs. / It is estimated / that living in a big city / is equivalent to smoking / half a packet of cigarettes a day. / What is more, / the most dangerous components of air pollution / are invisible gases. / We cannot smell or see / the dangerous gases given off / from the exhausts / of cars, lorries and buses. / However, / this does not mean / they are not present in our bloodstream / every time we take a breath. / It is obvious / that our future health / depends on the development / of a safer vehicle engine.

lecture: Electric cars? Solar-powered buses? When most people imagine solutions to the problems of city air pollution they probably think of electricity and solar power. But the problem with an electric car is that the electrical energy stored within the batteries has to be first produced by conventional means such as burning coal, which creates the very problem the car is supposedly designed to avoid. Even the battery disposal is an environmental hazard. As for solar power, at present the solar panels that catch the sunlight are twice as big as the cars they power. And speeds of ten kilometres an hour are hardly practical. What is required is a safe, cheap and highly efficient engine that produces fewer major air pollutants and only in small quantities. You may be surprised that the answer has been with us for quite some time.

The probable solution to city air pollution is a concept for an engine that was first proposed by a French scientist in 1824 and later designed and patented by a German refrigeration engineer in 1892, whose name was Rudolph Diesel. His design for an engine that would produce more energy output but burn less fuel became known as the diesel engine. Most people think of diesel engines as being efficient and cheaper to run but smelly and rather noisy. It is true that the black soot emitted from the exhausts of diesel lorries does not naturally lead us to conclude that the diesel engine can eradicate air pollution, but, contrary to popular belief, they emit far fewer of all the major air pollutants than petrol-driven engines, except for nitrogen oxides and black soot. However, soot can be trapped, and already new diesel engines are under development, being redesigned to burn diesel fuel in such a way that the nitrogen oxide gases are released into the air as harmless nitrogen and oxygen.

In fact, if all cars were running on diesel fuel, air pollution in major cities would disappear overnight. Why then has it taken this long to do something about it? The problem is that the disadvantages of diesel engines, which include greater noise and vibration as well as taking longer to start up, have meant that car manufacturers have been reluctant to invest in production of more expensive diesel-powered cars - afraid that customers would not purchase their products. Fortunately, new technology is ensuring that diesel-powered engines become lean, clean and mean. It might not be long before city smog is but a distant memory.
4.1 Narrator: Part Four. Listening Exercise 4.1. Listen to the following sentences, pausing your machine after each sentence to write down the essential details of what you have heard:

a. London is the capital city of Great Britain.
b. The Romans established what they called Londinium in 43 AD.
c. The city is by far the largest in Europe covering an area of approximately 620 square miles.
d. London is the political and financial heart of the nation.
e. The Houses of Parliament building stands on the banks of the River Thames.
f. Members of Parliament representing their electors debate changes to law within the House of Commons.
g. The City of London, also called the Square Mile, has been the financial centre since the Middle Ages.
h. The Bank of England was built in 1694 to fund the war with France.
i. Most of the important money markets had their origin in sixteenth-century coffee shops.
j. Much of the architecture of London was built in the nineteenth century during the reign of Queen Victoria.

4.2 Narrator: Exercise 4.2. A. Write down the numbers you hear in the following sentences:

A i. During the reign of Elisabeth I, the population of London doubled from 100,000 to 200,000.
ii. The population of London today is anything from 7 to 12 million, depending on how the count is taken.
iii. The number of visitors to London each year is 20 million and growing.
iv. Unfortunately, many medieval, Tudor, and Jacobean buildings were destroyed in 1666 by the Great Fire.
v. During the Second World War, hundreds of fine 17th, 18th and 19th century buildings were bombed.
vi. All but two of the monarchs since 1066 have been crowned in Westminster Abbey.
vii. The clock tower next to the Houses of Parliament, containing the 13\(\frac{1}{2}\) ton bell called Big Ben, is 320 feet tall.
viii. The Prime Minister’s residence at No. 10 Downing St. is a fifteen minute walk from Westminster Bridge.
ix. The changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace can be viewed at 11am and 4pm weekdays and Saturdays.
x. Nelson’s Column, a 185-foot pillar, on top of which is a statue of the famous Admiral, was built in 1805.

B Narrator: B. Spell correctly the names of the following places in and around London:

i. TOTTENHAM
   iv. TWICKENHAM
   vii. WEMBLEY
   x. WANDSWORTH

ii. PUTNEY
   v. LEWISHAM
   viii. ROTHERHITHE

iii. HARROW
   vi. ISLINGTON
   ix. GREENWICH

C Narrator: C. Spell correctly the names of the following persons associated with London:

i. Queen Boudicca - (attacked and destroyed the city in 61AD)
   ii. William the Conqueror - (assumed the seat of power in London in the eleventh century)
   iii. Sir Christopher Wren - (architect best remembered for St. Paul’s Cathedral)
   iv. William Shakespeare - (playwright whose plays were performed at the old Globe Theatre)
   v. Winston Churchill - (Conservative Prime Minister who conducted the war from a London bunker)
   vi. Geoffrey Chaucer - (early poet and first person to be buried in Westminster Abbey) viii. Sir Henry Tate - (inventor of the sugar cube and tycoon who founded the Tate Gallery)
   ix. Wynkyn de Worde - (pupil of Caxton who moved the printer’s printing presses to Fleet Street)
   x. Diana, Princess of Wales - (self-appointed ‘People’s Princess’ whose funeral stopped London in 1997)

D Narrator: D. Use abbreviations to quickly note down the rail distances and directions from London of the following places:

i. Manchester (184 miles north-west)
   vi. Liverpool (193 miles north-west)
   ii. Cardiff (155 miles east)
   vii. Penzance (280 miles south-west)
   iii. Birmingham (110 miles north-west) viii. Cambridge (54 miles north)
   iv. Salisbury (83 miles south-west)
   ix. Oxford (57 miles north-west)
   v. Lincoln (131 miles north)
   x. Bath (106 miles west)

4.3 Narrator: Exercise 4.3. Radio Item 7:

RADIO With me today from the Home Office, is Mr. David Thorpe, who has agreed to answer recent criticism of the government’s handling of the so-called ‘immigration problem’. The face of Britain changed radically during the latter part of the twentieth century. Since large-scale immigration of non-English-speaking persons to Britain began in the 1950s, there have been few attempts by the government to calm people’s fears of an invasion of foreign languages. Yet recent research by linguists from a prominent university has revealed that in certain city areas English is almost totally unspoken, and has called into question the value of bringing non-English-speaking immigrants to this country in the future. Mr. Thorpe, why do we have a problem with English within ethnic communities, and is there a real danger that the English language will lose its dominance in Britain?
APPENDIX 1 - TAPESCRIPTS

Thorpe: Let me begin by saying that this whole issue of people... what was it I read in the papers?... by the year 2050 the majority of people in the top 3 British cities would not be speaking English... is a myth... er, complete nonsense. The research was, in fact, conducted by a group of academics whose work was, first of all, totally misrepresented by the press, and, secondly, based on improbable statistical evidence supposedly linking language-learning difficulties to unemployment. The reverse is actually true, since... without a job... if you need to learn English, you can spend a greater amount of time studying in our English-language training programmes.

Newswoman: But the research points out that in certain poor areas of some large cities, English is already no longer the most commonly spoken language. What’s the government doing to rectify this situation?

Thorpe: What the research actually said was that it was taking longer for some new foreign residents in Britain to become proficient in English than in the past...

Newswoman: ...because, they say, of a drop in funding for English-language training programmes...

Thorpe: Not at all. The percentage of funding for English courses has significantly increased under this government. No, the reason some foreigners are taking longer to learn English is that overall there has been a slight upward shift in new migrants to city areas. It is, of course, more difficult to learn a language when you are older.

Newswoman: So will English ever become a second language in Britain, the country of its origin?

Thorpe: Really! How can that happen when the total number of immigrants to this country is a mere 50,000 a year? And that includes many who speak equally as well as you or I.

Newswoman: You or me...

Thorpe: If not better! (laughs)

Newswoman: Mr. Thorpe, thank you for your time. Enquiries for English language courses can be made by telephoning this number now: 0171-389-4204. That number again... 0171-389-4204.

RADIO Narrator: Radio Item 8:

ITEM They said it would be a horror budget, and they were right: cigarettes, wine and spirits, petrol, and luxury cars - all up on July 1 - and a reversal of pre-budget policy in which we were promised that there would be no increase in the cost of a television licence. In fact, the 20% rise in the cost of a packet of cigarettes came as a surprise, since cigarettes rose by more than 30% in the last budget. The cost of subsidised health care is to be paid for from this increase, which has angered many smokers still reeling from the previous price hike. However, this will make it possible to fund much needed equipment in city and country hospitals - a pre-election pledge by the government. Wine importers, who were hoping for a modest rise of only 2% in import tax, have been sluged with a 7% increase to be phased in over 3 years. Spirits are up by 15%, and only beer manufacturers can heave a sigh of relief. Petrol, however, is set to rise by 2p a gallon, which will inevitably mean an increase in the distribution costs of most manufactured goods. Luxury cars, that is cars with a wholesale price of more than £25,000, will now incur an 8% luxury goods tax increase in September, with a further 2% increase to take effect December 1 - a total increase of 10%. One unexpected increase is in the price of a television licence - designed to offset the increased educational cost to the government of recent computer purchases in primary schools. A 1.25% rise was considered last year but was quickly dropped when elderly lobby groups reacted angrily to the proposed increase. The government is not expecting opposition to the present rise of 0.5% because the elderly will benefit substantially from the health care subsidy increases, and the gradual phasing out of stamp duties on funerals - a 3.5% drop over 5 years, which is, perhaps, the only good news in the budget.

4.8 Narrator: Exercise 4.8. Dictation 2:

DICTATION A modern democracy / is founded upon three basic principles. / First, every citizen must have representation in government. / Second, voting rights shall be equal / and not recognise class distinctions. / Third, minority views will be heard and tolerated. / Most developed and economically successful nations / claim to owe their economic success / to the democratic foundations / of their political institutions. / Supporters argue that, / as well as being the most fair form of government, / it is also the most likely / to produce economic stability and prosperity. / Nevertheless, an elected government / must spend much of its time / arguing its position on an issue, / rather than implementing policy / and producing the desired result.

4.9 Narrator: Exercise 4.9. Lecture 4:

LECTURE Interviewer: Will you please welcome Vernon Applethwaite, a lecturer in political science at Worthington University, California, who is here today to discuss the types of voting systems in existence in various democracies worldwide. The floor is yours, Vernon.

Vernon: It's a pleasure to be here. Well, first of all, as most of you know, countries such as Britain and the United States employ a 'winner-takes-all' system of voting. That means the candidate with the greatest percentage of votes wins the election. 'First past the post' we say; like a horse in a horserace. But that usually means that the majority of voters didn't actually vote for the winning candidate! Now is that fair? Some countries don't believe it is fair, and there are numbers of other types of voting systems in use throughout the democratic world today which attempt to better determine the will of the people. These other voting systems use what is called 'proportional representation', which is best explained by showing you a voting card. Here you can see that to the right of each candidate's name is a small box. In that box, a voter puts a number 1, 2, 3, 4 etc. and so ranks his or her preference for each candidate in numerical order. Proportional representation ensures that parties with a majority of votes will earn a majority of seats in government, but that voters in the minority will also earn their fair share of representation. At present, this doesn't happen in 'winner-takes-all' systems, where votes for minority parties are virtually disregarded. The critical difference here is that in a proportional representation system supporters of minority parties realise their votes are not being wasted and, therefore, are more likely to exercise their right to vote ... something they might not do - unless, of course, they are compelled to vote by law, as they are in Australia, for instance, but not in Britain.

Now, there are 2 main types of proportional representation systems: those that are based on voting for candidates, and those that are based on voting for political parties who later decide - after the election - which persons will fill their party's share of the seats won - seats in government, that is.

Most well-established democracies use proportional representation - in all countries in Europe except France and the United Kingdom - but such systems do vary enormously. Australia and Ireland are two countries which vote for candidates; the federal system in Germany, on the other hand, is a mixed system.

Of course, proportional representation is not without criticism. In countries such as Israel and Italy, proportional representation is responsible for the large number of small political parties and ensuing confusion and division. Another criticism is that ticking long lists of preferences for lesser-favoured candidates requires far greater political knowledge than most voters have or wish to have. Therefore, the accuracy of preferences can be called into question. However, in the main, proportional representation has decided advantages.

Interviewer: Thank you Vernon. That was quite illuminating. Next week, Vernon will return to discuss the problematic issue of whether voting should or should not be compulsory. Now, any questions?

TAPESCRPTS 5.1-5.7 (pages79-81)

5.1 Narrator: Part Five. Listening Exercise 5.1. Listen to the following talk about two famous universities in England. Complete the table with the essential details of what you hear:

The universities of Oxford and Cambridge are justifiably world famous. Situated 83 miles from each other, and 56 and 55 miles from London respectively, both universities are at the heart of the architecturally beautiful cities they dominate. Oxford University, founded in the late 11th century, is only a one a half hour train journey from London (the River Thames is close by), and has 36 colleges, 13,000 undergraduates and a number of important libraries and museums. The Ashmolean Museum is the oldest public museum in the country. Steeped in history, the city of Oxford, with a population of over 120,000, is flooded with thousands of tourists throughout the year, who come to see such famous colleges as University College and Queen's College; the former being known for such famous alumni as the poet Shelley and President Bill Clinton. Regrettably, women have only been granted degrees from Oxford since 1920. At Cambridge University, on the other hand, only 3 colleges accepted women until the mid 1970s; some holding out until the late 1980s. Then again, Cambridge has 7 colleges founded by women. Cambridge University was founded later than Oxford, in the 13th century, but can boast one of the most spectacular buildings in Europe - King's College, also famous for its Boy's Choir. Other important colleges at Cambridge include Trinity College (Isaac Newton and Prince Charles were among those who attended) and Jesus College. The city of Cambridge, situated on the River Cam, has a population of just 100,000 and is a much more quiet and peaceful place than Oxford, drawing fewer tourists. The rivalry between the two universities culminates in an annual boat race, which, because of the crowds, is nowadays held in London.

5.2 Narrator: Exercise 5.2. Lecture 5:

LECTURE 5

Today, I wish to give you a look at the first day or two in London as seen through the eyes of a young visitor to the country on a temporary student visa. For most visitors, the first taste of England is touchdown at Heathrow International Airport which is only a £20 taxi fare from the heart of the city. As soon as one gets off the plane, the busy, commercial atmosphere of London immediately becomes apparent. The traffic is dense, and moves slowly. The buildings are old and the weather is usually cloudy. Many students arrange to stay with an English family while they study at an English language college, and are therefore met at the airport.

Having met the family and settled into his or her new home - most families in the city live in semi-detached houses - a visitor is usually tired after the trip and takes a day or two to recover from jet lag. But it isn't long before the desire to look around and discover the sights and sounds of London overcomes the shock of being in a foreign country. First on the list is a trip to the college chosen while overseas as the place to study English in Britain. Most colleges are located close to the city and are surprisingly modern and welcoming. They are always within easy travel distance of a bus route or a tube station, and the buses are modern and comfortable, although it is more expensive than taking a train. Most commuters to the city prefer the tube because the system is extensive and a lot faster and cheaper.

On intake day, students gather in the common room of their chosen college and are given an orientation to the programme they are about to embark upon. After they have been welcomed to the college, and know a little more about how the school works, it is time to take a short test to determine the best class for them to begin their studies. Come lunchtime, of course, it is necessary to find a place to eat. Some students sensibly bring their own lunch or else find a restaurant nearby that suits their palate. Of course, London has a vast number of restaurants at which to choose food from countries all over the world, and prices are generally quite acceptable.

In the afternoon, a student usually discovers that the way in which the language is taught in a British environment is different to what they are used to in their home country. Some students might be surprised at the difference in teaching methods. Students in English colleges are always treated as adults and the onus to perform is therefore on the student. Attending their first lesson of the course, they meet their classmates for the next few weeks. It is time to get to know each other and the opportunity for an exchange of personal information. After class, students make their way home, enlightened and sometimes a little confused about what is expected of them. But most agree that the experience they have had on their first day of college is worth all the hardship of leaving the comfort of home.

5.4 Narrator: Exercise 5.4. Dictation 3:

DICTATION

Studying at an English language college / in a foreign country / has its ups and downs. / For most students / it is the first time / they have attempted to learn / another language full-time. / Consequently, / it can be quite exhausting. / On the other hand, / there is the chance to meet new people / and make friends from a number of countries / in a short space of time. / The work itself is challenging; / the teachers, although friendly, / are there to make sure / your language requirements are achieved. / You must take advantage / of every opportunity / to put your new knowledge to the test / and speak English whenever possible. / Self-discipline, / regular daily practice, / and a relaxed attitude to learning / are the keys to success.

5.5 Narrator: Exercise 5.5. Conversation 1:

CONVERSATION

Ilsa: Hi, Erica. How did you go in the IELTS test? You took it two weeks ago, didn't you?

Erica: Yes, Ilsa. It was certainly a new experience for me. I didn't do too well. It was quite a long day and I was very nervous.

Ilsa: Did you do any specific practice for the test?

Erica: No, nothing special. I just studied vocabulary by myself in the local library.

Ilsa: Maybe you should have taken a short course like I did. The teacher was very helpful and gave us a lot of practice tests. I felt quite confident when I took the test.

Erica: You always are. I often listen to you on the campus radio station. Your IELTS score got you into uni, didn't it? How is it going?

Ilsa: It's much more difficult than I expected. I have to do so much reading, and the assignments I have to write are over 2000 words long.

Erica: I thought the IELTS Writing Tasks were extremely hard to understand.

Ilsa: Yes, Erica. But that's why you should have done a practice course.

Erica: I didn't know anything about the essay topic. I had never thought about it before.

Ilsa: What was the topic?

Erica: Something to do with computers. But I know nothing about computers.

Ilsa: We studied possible topics like that in the practice course. You only need to make 2 or 3 main points about a topic, you know, because the IELTS essay task is only 250 words long. You don't have to be an expert.

Erica: I didn't like the Listening Test either. It was very fast and I couldn't catch what they were saying at all.

Ilsa: Do you listen to English every day?

Erica: Not really ...

Ilsa: You live with friends from your own country, don't you?

Erica: Well, yes ...

Ilsa: You really ought to be in contact with English-speaking people every day, if you want to improve fast.

Erica: I know. Maybe that's why I found the Speaking Test difficult as well.

Ilsa: What did they ask you?

Erica: Oh, many things. It all happened so fast I can't remember. Something about public transport and the course I want to study - international trade.
Ilsa: Did you have to do a role-play?
Erica: What’s that?
Ilsa: Pretending you’re in a situation, and then you have to ask questions to find out some information.
Erica: Oh, yes. That’s right. I was at an airport or something. Anyway, I had this speech prepared about the weather in my country and my hobbies, and she never asked me about it. I tried to start talking about it but I didn’t get the chance. The examiner didn’t seem interested.
Ilsa: It’s meant to be a natural conversation, Erica. So what was your overall score?
Erica: Oh, I can’t tell you. I am too embarrassed.
Ilsa: You’d better enrol in a practice course soon. In three months you should be able to increase your overall Band Score by about one band.
Erica: I certainly hope so.

5.7 Narrator: Exercise 5.7. Conversation 2. Linda and Ross are two university tutors. Follow the direction of the tour Linda will give her students on the map shown. As you listen, fill in the names of the buildings she will visit, and the time she must arrive at or leave each destination.

CONVERSATION 2

Ross: Ah, Linda. Thank goodness you’re here. I don’t know how to thank you for doing this. The student intake this semester was twice as many as expected. Over 100. I couldn’t possibly take them all round the university campus myself. And the orientation tour is pretty important.
Linda: No problem, Ross. I’m glad to help out. How are we going to do it?
Ross: Well, I thought I’d split the students into two groups - A and B - and go in opposite directions. The A group can be yours - the Fashion and Textile students, and the B group can be mine, the nurses.
Linda: Sounds like a good idea.
Ross: You go in a clockwise direction. Starting from here at the Administration Building, and taking them up to the library first. Straight across to our left. I’ll go the other way, starting with the Student Centre - that round building over there...
Linda: Fine. So, where do I go after the library?
Ross: I’ll show you on this map. Now, the most important thing is that we’ve got to get back here within an hour. It’s 8 o’clock now, the students are getting here at 8.30, so we’ll start then and aim to finish the tour at 9.30. If we don’t, they’ll be late for the photo session. You know, for the student cards ...
Linda: OK, so I’ll keep an eye on my watch as I go ...
Ross: Good idea. Spend about 10 minutes at the library. Leave at 8.40. Then take them across to the Law Faculty and round to the Economics Block - you should be there by about a quarter to nine. Then on up to the School of Medicine - don’t worry about going into the Nursing Block behind it - you won’t have time. Now, when you get to the Humanities Block A - at the top left - it’ll be about 5 to 9. I suppose. Show them the Halls of Residence next, that’s important, then on down to Humanities Block B. Make sure you leave there by about 10 past, won’t you?
Linda: I hope they don’t mind walking ...
Ross: Oh, it’ll be good exercise for them. Now, go around the bottom end of the football oval, and on up to the School of Fashion and Textiles. Spend about 10 minutes there because most of your group of students will have enrolled at that school ...
Linda: So, I’ll leave there at about twenty five past ... just let me write that down ...
Ross: Yeah, and then walk past the Science Theatre, you won’t have time to go inside, and come down round the back of the Environmental Sciences Block, and keep going until you get to the Sports Centre. Show them the tennis courts on your ... er ... left as you come down ...
Linda: Hey, I’m not going to make it back to the Admin Building by half past nine, am I?
Ross: No, but that’s alright. The student card photo session is taking place in the Sports Centre this semester. They’re painting the inside of the Administration Building this week. Anyway, I’ll hurry my group along and get back first. By the time my students have their student cards, you’ll be ready and waiting.
Linda: Oh. OK. So I’ll be at the Sports Centre by ...
Ross: Well, let’s say... er... 9.40 at the latest. The only thing you won’t have shown them is the Student Centre. But that doesn’t matter. You can do that after they’ve got their student cards. Any questions?
Linda: No. Everything seems fine.
Ross: Good. Come on. Let’s get a coffee before they start arriving.

MODEL ANSWER:
The table shows the sales figures of fiction books, non-fiction books, and magazines in a college bookshop for February 2000. The figures are divided into two groups: sales to non-Book Club members and to Book Club members. The non-Book Club member figures comprise sales to college staff, college students, and members of the public. College staff bought 332 magazines, 44 fiction and 29 non-fiction books. College students bought 1249 magazines, 194 non-fiction and 31 fiction books. More magazines were sold to college students than to any other group of customers. Although no fiction books were sold to members of the public, they purchased 122 non-fiction books and 82 magazines.

Book Club members bought more fiction (76) and non-fiction books (942) than other customers. On the other hand, magazine sales to Club members (33) were fewer than for any other type of customer.

The total number of publications sold for the month was 3134 (1474 to college students, 405 to staff, 204 to the public, and 1051 to Book Club members). Of this figure, 151 items were fiction books and 1287 were non-fiction. Therefore, magazines accounted for the greatest number of sales (1696).

There are 3 instances of the passive voice in the model answer (underlined above). The first is in the present because it refers to the way in which the figures about the sales are currently being described, and two are in the past because they refer to the situation when the sales were actually made.

a. Figures for both male and females are given by the data in the graph.
b. Information regarding TV sales to various age-groups is shown in the table.
c. Data on radio listeners are included (displayed) by the statistics in the bar chart.
d. Figures for the rate of vocabulary acquisition at various ages are denoted in the chart.
e. The diagram is divided into four sections, one for each language.
f. The CD is placed by the user into the CD-ROM and the program is loaded into memory.
g. 2000 CDs were sold by the music store in the month of May to persons aged 20-25.

WRITING ANSWERS 2.2 - 2.8 (pages30-35)

2.2 (1) cyclist (2) is balanced (3) seat (4) saddle (5) handles / handlebars (6) pedals
(7) notched cog (8) is connected / is linked (9) metal chain (10) wheel hub (11) gear lever
(12) brake lever (13) is connected / is linked (14) cable (15) set of brakes (16) air pump
(17) rubber tyres (18) are filled (19) speedometer (20) headlamp
MODEL ANSWER:

A bicycle is a machine designed to transport a person by means of his or her own physical effort. It is, therefore, almost entirely environmentally-friendly. Since the amount of friction generated is much reduced, it is also extremely efficient.

It consists of four main sections: the two spoked wheels, a set of handlebars, and a revolving cog, held together by a metal frame. The cyclist, who is balanced on top of a seat covered by a soft saddle, leans forwards and grips the handlebars, pushing down with his or her feet on the pedals which rotate up and down. They drive a central notched cog which is connected by a metal chain to the back wheel hub. Alternative gear positions are available by operating a gear lever at hand level. Also on the handlebars is the brake lever, which is linked by a cable to a set of brakes on the back wheel.

Accessories include an air pump, with which the rubber tyres are filled periodically with air, a speedometer, and a headlamp for use at night.

MODEL ANSWER:
According to the bar chart, students from four European countries (Sweden, Spain, France and Germany) and one Middle Eastern country (Syria) are taking Graphic Design at the college. Some students are enrolled in the Computer-Aided Design (CAD) core option; the others are taking Photography.

Overall, Sweden has the largest number of enrolled students (17) and Syria the smallest (5). France and Spain both have 12 students; Germany has 11. It is noticeable that France and Germany have similar profiles.

Students from all five countries are enrolled in CAD, but more males are taking this option than females (21 and 9 respectively). For each nationality the males taking CAD outnumber the females, except in the case of the Syrians with 3 females to only 1 male. Sweden has the most students studying CAD (9); Spain is next with 7, while France has 6. Germany and Syria have 4 CAD students each.

As for the photography option, more females than males are enrolled from every country except Syria. In fact, no female Syrian students are taking Photographic Design. Only 1 male from each country is enrolled in Photography, except for 2 males from Spain.

(A) decreased slightly (B) rose sharply (C) fell dramatically (D) gradually increased

MODEL ANSWER:

The graph shows the four quarters of the 2000 financial year and the monthly profit of Acme Sports Cars and Branson Motors for 12 months. The former was making almost twice the profit at the beginning than at the end of the financial year. There was a three-fold increase in the latter’s monthly profit over the same period.

During the first quarter, Acme Sports Cars’ monthly profit decreased slightly from £70,000 to £60,000, but rose sharply to £80,000 by the end of June. Branson Motors’ monthly profit, however, doubled from £20,000 to £40,000.

Due to the introduction of a luxury goods tax, Acme Sports Cars’ monthly profit fell dramatically during the second quarter from £80,000 to only £10,000, whereas that of Branson Motors continued to rise, peaking at just over £60,000 by the end of September.

In the third quarter, Acme Sports Cars’ monthly profit increased steadily to £20,000 and remained stable, while Branson Motors’ monthly profits fluctuated between just over £60,000 and £40,000. At the beginning of the last quarter, a boost in the economy meant the monthly profit of both Acme Sports Cars and Branson Motors gradually increased to £40,000 and £60,000 respectively by the financial year’s end.

4.3 a. Topic: Stronger gun laws

Topic Question: Should the government introduce (them) to protect all citizens?
POSSIBLE PLAN

INTRO: = there are abuses of the system
BUT: my opinion = > YES. essential for 2 MAIN REASONS: 1. Many require welfare
2. Crime

BODY:

PARAGRAPH 1: (YES + WHY) REASON 1: Many require welfare ARGUMENT 1: Some people are unable to earn a wage Examples: Single parent mothers, disabled, sick ARGUMENT 2: The unemployed have the right to an income too - it is not always their fault - they've probably paid tax all their lives

PARAGRAPH 2: (YES + WHY) REASON 2: Crime ARGUMENT 1: Crime increases if people have no means of support ARGUMENT 2: Fighting crime is more expensive than providing welfare Example: The wages of one policeman are 4 or 5 times higher than a 'dole' payment.

PARAGRAPH 3: (NO) REASON 1: Payments increase dependency Refutation: True, but for the unemployed, usually only temporary REASON 2: Family’s responsibility to assist Refutation: It is too expensive to look after the severely disabled

CONCLUSION: (YES + WHAT IS PROVED: Welfare payments essential SUMMARY: A caring society must provide for all

MODEL ANSWER:

Social welfare is an essential element of an advanced society. Good systems are always abused, but that does not mean they are faulty. In my opinion, the two main reasons why welfare payments are necessary are as follows:

First of all, critics forget that there are many forms of welfare besides payments to the unemployed. Their negative opinions harm those who are not capable of earning a wage, such as single-parent mothers, the disabled, and the sick. Moreover, the unemployed have the right to an income, too. They are not always at fault for not having a job, and in most cases they have paid in the past entities them to assistance.

The second reason is that crime increases when people have no means of support. The desperately poor inevitably turn to crime, which is not only dangerous but costly. Policing the streets is more expensive than providing welfare. A policeman’s wage is four or five times higher than a ‘dole’ payment.

Certain members of society believe that people should look after themselves. They point out that welfare increases dependency on others and destroys dignity. This may be true, but in the case of the unemployed, the relief payments are usually temporary. It is surely the fault of the government if there are long-term unemployed. Welfare critics also believe that it is the responsibility of a victim’s family to provide financial assistance. However, it is too expensive to provide complete help for a severely disabled person.

To conclude, it is vital to understand the need for welfare in a modern democratic society. Without welfare payments the poor are destined to become poorer. The first duty of a government is to provide a financial safety net for all disadvantaged persons, and that includes those without work. (297 words)

GRAMMAR ANSWERS 4.1 - 4.10 (pages 74-77)

4.1 a. The main purpose of government is to provide a stable framework of management within which a country grows* steadily and can prosper. b. Most people, however, usually take the view that deciding moral issues eventually becomes* the government's responsibility. c. In other words, the government is not only responsible for managing the economy; it decides* what a member of society can and cannot do within that society. d. A democracy must allow freedom of thought and expression, but this does not mean that all ideas and actions can be tolerated; an individual or group of persons who intentionally violates* democratic principles must be restrained. e. The majority of people believes* that governments should set and maintain the moral code within society, but when this occurs*, personal freedom is put at risk and loses* its perceived importance. f. It is often difficult for a politician who argues* the case for personal freedom when the general public demands* a traditional approach to moral issues. g. Politicians almost always take a pragmatic approach to their work. The ideal politician, however, does* not easily compromise his or her principles.

WRITING ANSWERS 5.1 - 5.4 (pages 87-90)

5.1  (1) six stages  (2) the first stage is  (3) second stage  (4) writing the first draft
(5) a brief outline  (6) formal academic style  (7) stage number four  (8) writing a second draft
(9) the final draft  (10) a spellcheck is required
5.2  The suggested arrangement of the paragraphs given in the model answer below is one of a number of suitable solutions to the problem:

MODEL ANSWER:
For this university course an essay is completed in six stages. The first stage is a private tutorial in which the task and topic are fully discussed with the tutor. A reading list should be obtained, detailing useful resource material.

The second stage involves conducting suitable research. Notes are collected from available literature at the library, and data collected from questionnaires, interviews and surveys. Writing the first draft is the third stage. First, it is necessary to organise the content of the essay and produce a brief outline. Next, the draft is written in the acceptable formal academic style and checked for appropriate language.

Stage number four is another tutorial or study group discussion, during which problem areas are analysed and further ideas and suggestions are noted. The fifth stage includes reading the resource material again before writing a second draft, using suggestions from stage four. Once completed, all quotations should be checked for errors.

The sixth stage consists of writing the final draft of the essay. A spellcheck is required before adding a title page and compiling a bibliography. The essay should then be submitted before the deadline for completion.

5.3 MODEL ANSWER:

Youth drug abuse is a serious problem nowadays in many cultures. Not only is illegal drug use on the rise, but children as young as 10 years old are experimenting with alcohol and tobacco. The reasons for this behaviour are unclear, but certain sociologists blame the examples set by their elders. Parents who drink and smoke to excess are, in effect, telling their children that it is acceptable to abuse their bodies with drugs. Consequently, children may have a similar view towards illegal drugs even if their parents are against them. In addition, drug use shown on television and in films can only confuse children who are also taught at school that drug abuse is wrong.

The pressure on young people to perform well at school in order to compete for jobs is a possible cause of the problem. Many believe they cannot live up to their parents’ expectations and feel a sense of hopelessness. Also, the widespread availability of drugs means teenagers are faced with the temptation to experiment. Drugs are used as a means of expressing dissatisfaction with the pressures they face in society.

The effects of drug abuse are well known. Many young people’s talents are wasted and addiction to hard drugs can cost a user his or her life. Furthermore, those who drink and drive may be involved in fatal road accidents. The cost to society is great, and enormous amounts of money are spent on convicting drug dealers and on education programmes.

To conclude, I recommend that the only sensible way to solve this problem is to educate young people about the dangers of drug use and to take steps to reduce the pressure of competition placed upon them.

PRACTICE FOR MULTIPLE CHOICE QUESTIONS

The given multiple choice answers are either directly or indirectly supported (correct), directly or indirectly contradicted (incorrect), or not mentioned at all (incorrect).

Examine the 3 (or more) possible answers to see how multiple choice tasks are constructed. Since there is usually only one correct answer - the instructions tell you if more than one answer is possible (see also Hint 31) - it follows that the other answers must either be definitely wrong (contradicted in the passage) or not mentioned at all.

First, look at the ways in which answer choices may be incorrect:
1. There is often at least one given answer choice that is neither sensible nor logical.
2. There may be given answer choices that are contradicted in the passage.
   A choice may either be - directly contradicted - clearly and directly opposite in meaning to what is heard or
   - indirectly contradicted - what is heard leads you to conclude that the choice is incorrect or
   - not exactly what is stated - almost, but not quite, what the speaker says.
3. There may be given answer choices that are not mentioned in the passage. (Note that some answers might not be mentioned in the passage and may also lack logic or sense.)

Next, look at the ways in which answer choices may be correct:
1. A given answer choice may be directly supported by what is stated in the passage.
2. A given answer choice may be indirectly supported by what is stated in the passage, that is, what is heard leads you to conclude that the choice is the correct answer.

When you practise, ask yourself if the given answer choices in a multiple choice question are:
- directly supported...ds
- indirectly supported...is
- not exactly what is stated...ne
- not mentioned...nm
- lacking logic or sense...ls
- "all or none of the above"...a or n

MULTIPLE CHOICE - CONSIDER ALL OF THE CHOICES

Consider all of the possible answer choices. The last choice may be one of the following two types:
1. "all of the above" answer choices are correct or
2. "none of the above" is correct.

If you do not read the last choice given, and it asks you to consider all of the other choices as correct or incorrect answers, you might easily make a choice that only partly answers the question.

LOOK FOR PATTERNS OF WORDS AND PHRASES

Finding the answers to questions in the Reading Test depends on your ability to recognise the shapes and patterns in groups of words. There are basically 3 kinds of "patterns" in groups of words to recognise:

Pattern Type 1 ... with exactly the same pattern Pattern Type 2 ... with a similar pattern Pattern Type 3 ... with a less recognisable pattern

i.e. with exactly the same words i.e. with one (or more) words substituted
i.e. with different words but the same or similar meaning to the words sought

Question: Permanent damage to the body may result if Ecstasy is taken simultaneously with ...(?)

(Pattern Type 1) 'may result'
(Pattern Type 2) 'taken simultaneously' (Pattern Type 3) 'damage to the body'

Question Phrase Passage Phrase
'may result'
'taken at the same time'
'harm to bodily organs'
While it is true that the IELTS Writing Test is not marked for neatness, you should still consider the psychological aspect of the task when you are trying to impress an examiner. You are not there in person to present your work, so always aim to make your writing look presentable on the page.

10 Point Guide to Presentation and Layout

1. There is no need for a title in the IELTS test task writings, and do not rewrite the question task.
2. Use left and right margins as in the two good examples above.
3. Use either indentations for the first line of each paragraph (traditional method) or a blank line between paragraphs (modern method), but do not mix both methods.
4. Do not use double spacing, that is, do not leave a blank line between each line of writing.
5. Use all the line - write from the very edge of the left margin all the way to the very edge of the right margin. This is true for every line, except where the line is short, or where the last word will not fit between the margins. In the latter case, do not continue into the margin area. Start on a new line with the word that is too large.
6. Do not split words. Rather than memorise complex rules for splitting words, do not split them.
7. Write between 10-12 words per line. This will prevent you writing words too large and with gaps larger than a single letter or two between words. It will also make it simpler for you to quickly estimate how many words you have written in the test.
8. Use cursive writing, that is, with the letters joined together.
   Cursive writing makes your work look more mature, if it can be read easily. The non-cursive writing of some candidates can look immature. Since first impressions are important, impress the examiner by writing the way educated English-speaking adults usually write in English.
9. Write in a thick, not fine, pen, and consider writing in blue ink. Why? From a psychological point of view, a thick pen makes a stronger impression. Similarly, written work in pencil looks weak and impermanent. Pencil users waste time erasing, and sharpening or pumping the lead. Blue ink is more soothing and pleasant to look at than black. Leave behind a positive impression.
10. If you make a mistake, simply cross out the error one word at a time. There is no penalty for crossing out. Besides, it shows the examiner that you are capable of error correction.
